Israel linked to uranium theft at sea

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Israel is believed to have been behind the disappearance of 200 tons of uranium being shipped by sea from Belgium to Italy in 1968, a former U.S. Senate expert on nuclear proliferation said today.

Paul L. Leventhal's statement about the vanished uranium coincided with similar reports in the New York Times and the Los Angeles Times.

The newspapers quoted U.S. and European intelligence officials and suggested the Israelis may have used the fuel to run a small nuclear reactor that can produce the raw material for nuclear weapons.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli Atomic Energy Commissin denied any Israeli connection with the disappearance.

Leventhal, former counsel of the Senate Government Operations Committee, said that several weeks after the ship failed to make its scheduled call at an Italian port with the uranium, "it reappeared with a new name, new registry, new crew, but no uranium."

He said intelligence sources from several countries investigated the incident "but eventually closed their probe of the case."

"It is assumed that it was unloaded in Israel," he said.

Leventhal, who gave no further details and did not identify his source for the information, was speaking at a conference on "A Non-Nuclear Future," a gathering of critics of nuclear energy from 20 nations.

He told the participants that the 1968 incident illustrated the need for more rigorous safeguards of nuclear fuel and "the importance of international escort services for shipments of nuclear materials."

Israel has said its 26-megawatt Dimona reactor in the Negev Desert, bought from France in the late 1950s, runs on uranium obtained as a by-product of phosphate plants at the Dead Sea.

The reactor cannot be inspected by the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna because Israel has not signed the treaty that is the basis for the agency's operations. Inspectors from the IAEA would check to make sure the uranium is not used to make nuclear weapons.

The Los Angeles Times quoted a senior European nuclear official as saying inspectors from Euratom, the European atomic energy organization, tried to trace the ship's movements when it failed to arrive in Italy.

He said the uranium was unquestionably stolen in what he called the largest disappearance of nuclear material in history, the newspaper reported. The shipment would have been worth $3 million at the time, it said.

A New York Times report on the incident said it involved a commercial German-flag ship.

The Los Angeles Times quoted a senior U.S. official as saying Israel might not have stolen the uranium, and that the mineral instead might have been "laundered" through another country for sale. He said the disappearance seemed to be a "complicated deception" involving "all kinds of altered documents" to mask the seller and buyer.

Israel has never issued a clear-cut denial of persistent foreign reports that it has — or can quickly build — nuclear bombs. When asked about the reports, government spokesmen consistently respond that "Israel will not be the first to introduce nuclear weapons into the Middle East."

Hike in food stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most needy persons getting government food stamps will receive a cost-of-living increase ranging from $2 to more than $8 a month beginning July 1, the Agriculture Department said today.

Officials said the boost, which will vary with a size of the household, will be the first for food stamp families in 18 months. A family of four, for example, will get food stamps worth $170 a month beginning July 1, compared with $166 currently, a level set on Jan. 1 of last year.

About 17.8 million persons — nearly 5.6 million households — received food stamps in February, the most recent USDA tabulation.

$2,500 taken in holdup of local bank

A lone robber wearing a cowboy hat fled with $2,500 in a paper sack late Thursday in a holdup of the Lloyd's Bank at 1095 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, police reported.

A 23-year-old teller said the man approached her station, placed a brown paper bag on the counter and said, "I want your money in the sack." When she looked dubiously at him, the teller said, he warned that he was serious and reached into his trousers pocket as if he had a pistol there. She placed the cash in the bag.

The robber walked from the bank through the rear door and was last seen northbound on Gordon Street still on foot. He was described as white, about 22, 5 feet 8 to 6 feet tall and skinny. He had long sideburns, a mustache and wore a beige cowboy hat, dark blue jacket and dark trousers.

Compromise $4 billion measure goes to House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to the House today a compromise version of President Carter's plan to spend $4 billion on public works jobs to stimulate the economy and curb unemployment.

The vote was 71 to 14.

The compromise, put together by a House-Senate conference committee, is expected to be taken up in the House on Tuesday. Its passage there would make it the first of Carter's economic proposals to clear Congress.

The conferees reached agreement Tuesday, ending a sevenweek stalemate by elminating a controversial $7.25-million, water-pollution-control section from the bill.

The measure was debated on the Senate floor Thursday night but a vote was put off until today.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., told the Senate the bill "recognizes he difficulty of overwhelming unemployment in my own and other industrial states" by setting aside 35 per cent of the money only for use by states with severe unemployment.

This was the formula contained in the Senate version passed on March 10. The other 65 per cent of the funds would be distributed according to the number of unemployed in each state. The House bill would have distributed 85 per cent on the latter basis, with 15 per cent reserved for states with heavy unemployment.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, DMaine, who had wanted $9 million for a water pollution control program attached to the bill, said deletion of the pollution funds was "of great concern," although he agreed to it in the conference committee.

Muskie urged the Senate to put such funds in some other part of the Carter economic stimulus package. Otherwise, he said, some 34 states will run out of money for pollution control projects this year.

The House wanted parts of the water pollution program postponed and some of its requirements eased.

The money provided by the bill would be available immediately to cities and counties for construction of hospitals, schools, parks, sewers and other public works projects.

It is designed to create about 160,000 jobs, both to stimulate the economy and to ease unemployment. The national jobless rate was 7.3 per cent last month.

The bill contains a Senate provision requiring the President to spend all money appropriated for water development projects. The administration is seeking to eliminate 15 such projects, in most cases by leaving them out of the budget.

Surgery not deterring Mrs. Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The removal of a benign lump from First Lady Rosalynn Carter's breast won't interfere with her busy schedule, a White House spokeswoman says.

"She is up and about and in great spirits," said Mary Finch Hoyt, press secretary to Mrs. Carter. "This will not affect her schedule."

The non-cancerous growth, discovered during Mrs. Carter's routine six-month checkup Thursday afternoon at Bethesda Naval Hospital, was removed immediately. Mrs. Carter was back at the White House by 5 p.m.

The 40-minute operation was performed by Capt. William Fouty, chairman of the hospital's surgery department. The operation was followed by a biopsy, a microscopic examination, that showed the lump was benign.

Mrs. Hoyt said Mrs. Carter, who had no history of lumps in her breast, was alone at the hospital since the checkup was expected to be routine.

Mrs. Hoyt declined to say which of Mrs. Carter's breasts was operated on.

Billion in Medicaid waste

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nationwide survey by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare indicates that the federal and state governments are paying out $1 billion a year in Medicaid funds to ineligible recipients.

That estimate of wasted funds is in addition to an estimated $1 billion in Medicaid money lost through fraud and abuse by doctors, nursing homes and other providers of Medicaid services, according to a spokesman for HEW's new Health Care Financing Administration.

The new survey, released Thursday, actually examined only 14,119 Medicaid claims out of a total of 50 million claims filed in two portions of Medicaid, but the survey filled in several gaps in national Medicaid statistical reviews, enabling officials to project an overall rate of loss due to ineligibility of recipients.

The survey findings indicate that in the two portions of the Medicaid program that together serve 9.3 million of the 26 million Medicaid recipients about 9 per cent of the total funds expended goes to pay ineligible claims.

The new survey covered the so-called medically needy group made up of low-income persons who do not receive cash welfare assistance through Aid to Families with Dependent Children — AFDC — or Supplemental Security Income — SSI. The second group in the new survey was drawn from the states that determine their own eligibility rules for the federally run Supplemental Security Income program.

The first group contains 5.8 million persons and the second contains 3.5 million. The losses due to payments to ineligible recipients in both groups totaled $715 million of federal and state funds, the survey projected.

The $715 million figure plus $265 million that earlier studies have indicated are misspent in other portions of the program total $980 million. Other portions include Medicaid recipients who do receive AFDC or SSI recipients whose eligibility is determined by the federal government.

The state-by-state breakdown of errors in payments indicated that New York and the District of Columbia were the only jurisdictions where willful misrepresentation of facts by Medicaid recipients was a major cause of losses.

Boys stone zoo flamingos to death

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — At first the three boys were just petting and stroking the graceful Greater Flamingos at the Philadelphia Zoo. Then they beat and stoned eight of the birds to death, police said.

Five of the fragile, rare birds, worth a total cost of between $5,000 and $8,000, were found dead. Three others were so badly battered they had to be destroyed.

Police said the boys — two aged 10 and one 13 — scaled a fence Wednesday night and made their way to the man-made island where the birds and two species of African antelope are kept.

After petting the birds, the boys picked up sticks and stones and attacked the flamingos, police said. The birds' wings had been clipped to prevent them from escaping the zoo. A security guard heard the clamor and detained the boys.

The attack cut the zoo's herd of 17 flamingos nearly in half.

Another bird injured earlier under similar circumstances has been strung in a sling at the zoo, its leg bandaged and body supported by a strip of canvas.

Each boy was charged on Thursday with cruelty to animals, criminal mischief, conspiracy and trespassing. They were released in the custody of the parents pending a hearing before city juvenile authorities.

"I don't know what they had in mind to go there," said the mother of one of the arrested youths, age 13. "I don't think they were meaning any harm. They were just fooling around.

"My boy is a good student. He's mischievous, but not bad. He's never been in any trouble," the mother said.

"All of them are basically nice boys. I don't know what happened," said the mother of another youth, age 10. "My son "just said they were playing. I'm sure they wouldn't want to hurt anything. I don't think they knew what they were doing," she said.

A VICTIM OF VANDALS

Groucho just resting, welcoming friends

BEVERLY HILLS (AP) — Unaware of the tempest over his conservatorship and ignorant of the death of his brother, an enfeebled Groucho Marx is spending his days receiving a long line of old friends, his new conservator says.

"They are all coming," said Nat Perrin, Groucho's longtime pal and former gag writer, named last week as the 86-year-old comedian's conservator. "Norman Panama (writer-producer), Juilius Epstein (writer) and Georgie Jessel came by, and George Burns is coming over this week.

"I think his real, deep enjoyment in life comes from seeing his old buddies."

Marx, who suffers from urinary tract difficulties, heart problems, recurrent pneumonia and the fuzziness of old age, was not even aware of last week's court battle over who would take care of him.

In that case, Groucho's son Arthur argued against Erin Fleming being named permanent conservator for the aged comedian. Miss Fleming, a 37-year-old former actress who attached herself to Marx and became his constant companion, was pictured by Arthur Marx's attorneys as a shrieking tormentor. Nurses testified that powerful tranquilizers were used on Marx to a dangerous degree, and since Marx's doctor did not prescribe them, their illegal administration represents a felony under state law, said Beverly Hills police.

Detectives have begun to investigate the matter.

In the end, Santa Monica Superior Court Judge Edward Rafeedie ruled that testimony showed Miss Fleming displayed "an extraordinary degree of domination and control over Mr. Marx's mind" and asked Perrin to take care of Groucho until May 13, when a hearing into permanent conservatorship was scheduled.

"The judge came up to see him (Groucho) the night before I was appointed," Perrin said. "I don't know how much got through to Groucho."

Perrin says Marx does not know that his younger brother, Gummo (Herbert), died last week at age 84.

"You can't carry on a real conversation" with Groucho, Perrin says, but his friends "get some messages to him by conversing with his nurse."

Perrin says Miss Fleming still visits Groucho almost daily, and adds, "I don't intend to keep her away, although we'd like to keep visits down to reasonable time so there's a chance that all the people through the years he's shown affection for can see him. What I'm trying to do is spare some kind of embarrassment to people who may not like her."

Groucho, Perrin feels, is embarrassed about having to be dressed and fed, and is most happy when visited by some of the oldtimers. "Morrie Ryskin (writer of Marx Brothers' "Animal Crackers," "Night at the Opera") came over to visit yesterday and he said, 'Grouch, you remember my wedding? You were my best man.'

"And Groucho says to him, 'Then I was best, today I am worst.' The instinct for some kind of joke is still there."

Boyce convicted of spying for Soviets in quick verdict

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Christopher Boyce, a college student who portrayed himself as a reluctant spy for the Russians, has been convicted on eight counts of espionage and conspiracy, which could bring him life imprisonment.

The 23-year-old Boyce, son of a former FBI agent, heard the jury's swift verdict only moments after lawyers for his codefendant made the surprise claim before another jury that Boyce was secretly a CIA agent.

Boyce and a boyhood friend, Andrew Daulton Lee, 25, are accused of selling secrets to a Russian at the Soviet embassy in Mexico City for about $70,000. Lee was arrested Jan. 6 in Mexico City and Boyce was arrested in Riverside 10 days later.

Lee's trial, which continues today, was interrupted by word that Boyce's jury had reached a verdict after only three hours of deliberation.

Lee was hustled out of court, and Boyce was marched back in with his lawyers.

Boyce showed no expression as the court clerk read the word, "guilty" for each of the eight charges. His chief attorney, William Dougherty, said he would appeal the conviction on grounds that Boyce's rights were violated at the time of his arrest.

Boyce, who gained top-secret security clearance as a documents clerk at TRW Systems, Inc., insisted he was blackmailed by Lee into becoming a traitor. Asked if he had willfully acted as an agent of the Russian government, Boyce told the jurors from the witness stand, "Not willfully, but I knew that's what I had become."

In stark contrast, Lee's defense team declared that both young men were framed by the CIA, which chose to abandon them when they were arrested with classified material.

Lee's attorney, Kenneth Kahn, stated that Lee was a "right-on American" who carried only misinformation to the Russians as part of a CIA plan to confuse the Soviets.

Kahn said, "We expect the evidence to show that Mr. Boyce was a CIA operative in every sense of the word except that TRW signed his paychecks."

The prosecution has said it will call a CIA witness to testify that neither Boyce nor Lee had ever worked for the CIA.

U.S. District Judge Robert Kelleher set Boyce's sentencing for May 27. The prosecution has said it will seek life in prison for Boyce.

THEIR WAIT IS OVER

To be considered by L.A. council

Water penalties proposed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Water wasters would pay penalties and could lose water service altogether under a city ordinance proposed by the mayor's water committee.

The proposed ordinance, completed by the committee Thursday, will go before City Council next week.

Under the ordinance, residents would be asked to use 10 per cent less water than in the comparable billing periods last year. Use of water to hose down sidewalks and driveways or to sprinkle lawns so that water runs down gutters would be outlawed.

Failure to meet the 10 per cent cutback would result in surcharges of not less than 15 per cent of the water bill plus $1 per 750 gallons used in excess of the allotment.

Continued violation would mean installation of restrictors, at a cost of $25, that would cut flow of water to the house to one gallon a minute.

Ultimately, the Department of Water and Power would have authority to shut off water to a household that continued to violate the ordinance.

In the ordinance, the committee mentioned industrial and commercial users, but made sure that there would be no loss of jobs. The committee urged firms to decrease water use in non-essential areas and called for large industrial users to submit water conservation plans for city approval.

The ordinance would also give the mayor and City Council power to order rationing levels in the future up to 25 per cent.

Councilman Joel Wachs, Council's liaison to the committee, said mandatory rationing provisions of the proposed ordinance would not begin before the billing cycle that starts July 1. City users would not feel the affect of the program for another four or six months because of billing delays.

Mayor Tom Bradley called two months ago for voluntary 10 per cent water cutbacks, but DWP surveys have showed that water use has not decreased.

State briefs

Budget for integration plan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The city school district's deputy budget diretor insists the Board of Education can afford only $33 million for an integration program this fall.

Charles Richard Caldwell testified Thursday before Superior Court Judge Paul Egly, who is holding hearings on the board's plan to desegregate the district to meet court orders.

The amount is less than three per cent of the proposed 1977-78 $1.2 billion district budget, which School Supt. William Johnston presented to the board Thursday.

Harold C. Hart—Nibbrig, attorney for the plaintiffs in the integration court case, repeatedly asked about surplus funds in the board's budget. But Caldwell said those do not represent extra or unspent funds.

Johnston's budget includes elimination of 468 jobs, including 258 teaching positions by attrition, and does not have money for a general pay increase for teachers. The cutbacks are to pay for an integration plan, Johnston said.

The board also voted Thursday to give teachers until May 6 to volunteer for transfers to help balance the district's ethnic distribution. Transfers will be mandatory after that date unless the voluntary transfers achieve the district's staff integration goal.

Tuna industry demonstrations

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Members of unions working in the tuna industry say demonstrations will be held in California, Oregon and Puerto Rico on Monday to protest porpoise-protection rules that have caused the U.S. tuna fleet to shut down.

James Bozzo of the Fisherman's Union of America, an offshoot of the Seafarers International Union, said Thursday that cannery employes, many of them jobless because of the tuna shortage, will picket government buildings in San Diego, Astoria, Ore., and several cities in Puerto Rico where canning plants are located.

Meanwhile, the U. S. Attorney in San Diego announced Thursday he is asking that a suit by the American Tunaboat Association be transferred to Washington or dismissed.

14-mile military base

SAN DIEGO (AP) — State senate minority leader George Deukmejian of Long Beach says he favors a military base spanning 14 miles of the U.S.Mexican border as a blockade to the influx of illegal aliens.

"If aliens were illegally crossing and came onto the military property, they could be turned across the border, eliminating the illegal proceedings," the republican lawmaker said.

"Another benefit would be it would provide a peace time civil mission for these military personnel in that they could work in training, communications, security tactics, detection training, transportation, public relations and the like," he added.

The U.S. border patrol estimates that up to one-half of illegal aliens entering the United States from nations south of the border slip across the 14-mile stretch between the Pacific ocean and Otay mountain just south of San Diego.

Handicapped demonstration ends

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After 24 days of occupying government offices, handicapped demonstrators cheered happily at the news that federal regulations guaranteeing their civil rights had been signed.

But a few hours later their joy had turned to uncertainty and they were huddled behind closed doors at a strategy session to consider their next move.

"The movement will continue," said Mrs. Linda Gill of East Oakland, spokeswoman for a group of blind, deaf and crippled people who took over offices of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare April 5 and at its peak numbered about 125.

"So far we are very optimistic," Mrs. Gill said of the new regulations signed Thursday by HEW Secretary Joseph Califano. "It sounds as though it was signed pretty much the way we wanted it. But we're still waiting for our attorneys to finish reviewing the regulations."

About 50 protesters chose to remain in their stuffy quarters in the old Federal Building Thursday night while awaiting the return of nine of the 22member delegation they had sent to Washington.

The Washington contingent is "trying to set up a meeting with...Califano to discuss implementation, which we consider equally important to the signing," said Jim Pechin, a demonstration leader.

"Our people don't have too much faith in HEW based on past performance," he added.

"To have the regulation signed doesn't mean the world will miraculously change," said Dusty Irvine, another protest leader. "This is just the first step."

Lucy Muir, an arthritic, said the 24-day protest had inspired a new sense of power among the disabled. "The minute we began to realize that we were accomplishing something, we began coming out of our houses," she said.

Leslie Van Houten trial

'Stabbing was fun' disputed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The defense has disputed testimony by a former Charles Manson "family" member that Leslie Van Houten told her it was fun when she stabbed a dead body some eight years ago.

Dianne Lake, now 24, testified Thursday that in September 1969 Miss Van Houten "told me that she had stabbed somebody that was already dead. She said at first she didn't want to do it, but the more she did it, the more fun it was."

But while Miss Lake testified she remembered Miss Van Houten saying "fun," defense attorney Maxwell Keith read the transcript of a previous trial where Miss Lake admitted she herself might have used the word.

Miss Van Houten, now 27, is being retried in the Aug. 10, 1969, murders of grocer Leno LaBianca and his wife, Rosemary, who were stabbed to death in their Los Feliz home.

Coroner's pathologist Dr. David Katsuyama testified at the trial's outset that 14 of the 41 stab wounds to Mrs. LaBianca were inflicted after she died.

Miss Van Houten was convicted of murder in 1971, but the State Court of Appeal overturned that verdict last August because Miss Van Houten's attorney, Ronald Hughes, died before the trial's conclusion.

Prisoner sexual freedoms recommended by task force

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A state task force report recommends sexual freedoms for county and city jail prisoners, and access to some drugs and obscene material.

The report, ordered by Jerome Lackner, state health director, was obtained by the Sacramento Union.

Bob Nance, health department spokesman, told The Union that the report is "simply a draft report" that has not been fully prepared for submission to the state Department of Corrections.

Lackner appointed the task force from his department and other local and private health agencies, as well as the Prisoners Union and Equal Rights Advocates of San Francisco.

Among the dozens of recommendations:

—Inmates should be "free to engage in sexual behavior as otherwise permitted by law. It shall be the responsibility of the facility to ensure these rights."

—Prisoners should be guaranteed conjugal visits "with any persons chosen by the prisoner not prohibited by state law" at least once a month for at least four hours.

—Sheriffs should be required to recommend parole or temporary release for any female prisoners who become pregnant.

—Abortions should be provided at no cost to any prisoner requesting it. Sterilization operations would be prohibited.

—Prisoners should be guaranteed contraceptives, and transsexuals confined to jail should be guaranteed continued hormone treatments.

—Prisoners on methadone before imprisonment should have the right to continued treatment.

—Rules against prisoners receiving obscene literature or material "tending to incite murder, arson, riot, violent racism or any other form of violence" should be eliminated.

ATTACK VICTIM

William Lundquist, 25, comforts his wife Leslie, also 25, after they were attacked and she was shot during a mugging on a San Francisco street Wednesday night. Police captured four suspects within an hour of the attack. Mrs. Lundquist was pulled along the street and finally shot when she tried to hold on to her purse which she said contained identification papers.

Suspects arrested

Two intruders struggle with apartment owner

Two men arrested by police Thursday night are accused of having struggled with an apartment owner who found two persons inside his Ontario home at 1850 E. Fourth St.

Booked in the West End sheriff's jail on suspicion of burglary are Gregory Scott Myers, 22, 1802 E. Fourth St., Ontario, and Randall John Bourland, 22, 8283 Cornwall St., Etiwanda.

The victim, Arvid Johnson, 25, told police he had just driven his wife and children home and asked his wife to open the apartment door while he parked the car.

As he was parking the car, Johnson said he saw two men enter the apartment after his wife and children. Fearing for their safety, Johnson said he ran inside the apartment and confronted the men who were tampering with a television set.

Johnson told officers he struggled with the two men, but they managed to push him away and flee. He gave police a description of the men.

A short time later, officers saw two men matching the descriptions inside a convenience market at Fourth Street and Vineyard Avenue.

The two were arrested and booked into the jail.

Ontario boy tells of kidnap attempt

Ontario police are seeking a man in a brown car who reportedly attempted to kidnap a 12-year-old Imperial High School student near Plaza Serena Street and Vineyard Avenue in Ontario Thursday afternoon.

The boy told police that he was walking home from school when the man driving the brown car, described as a 1970 Vega or Pinto, pulled up beside him and asked him directions to the police station.

The boy said he told the man he didn't know where the station was located and started to walk away. He said the man reached out of the passenger side of the car and grabbed him by the left arm.

The boy said he struggled to break free and noticed the man had a handgun shoved into his waistband. The boy said he did break the man's grip and ran off for help.

Police said that another youth following about 75 feet behind the young victim confirmed the attempted kidnaping story.

The man was described as being white, 22 years of age, 6 feet tall, about 170 pounds.

He was wearing a blue shirt and brown pants.

Carter welcomes Spanish Premier

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter gave a warm White House welcome today to Spanish Premier Adolfo Suarez in a show of U.S. support for Spain's experiment in democratic rule.

Posing for photographers in the Oval Office with Suarez, Carter shifted between English and Spanish as he greeted the 44-year-old allied leader.

"We're very proud of what you're doing in your country," Carter told Suarez in English.

Then, reverting to Spanish, Carter said, "Es un gran honor tenerle en nuestro pais. (It's a great honor to have you in our country)."

The two leaders met for almost an hour accompanied by top aides. Then Suarez was scheduled to have a meeting with Treasury Secretary W. Micheal Blumenthal.

Other highlights of Suarez's day-long visit here included a luncheon with Vice President Walter F. Mondale and a meeting with members of the Senate Foregin Relations Committee.

Officials said the meeting with Carter was the President's way of wishing Spain well as the country prepares for a June 15 election, the first in Spain in 40 years.

Air pollution deadline delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation giving both automakers and states more time to meet tough federal air pollution standards is headed for House action.

The House Commerce Committee on Thursday approved a major overhaul of the 1970 Clean Air Act, clearing it for full House action by a voice vote. Committee leaders were hopeful the bill would be scheduled for a floor vote sometime next month.

The legislation sets new air quality standards for both mobile and stationary sources of air pollution, and generally eases or delays many of the stiffest standards soon to take effect under existing law.

Under an amendment adopted 28 to 13 Thursday, states would have up to 10 additional years to meet certain standards for airborne pollution, but only if they adopted their own programs to clean up the air.

The amendment would give states more flexibility in allowing new industries to move into areas not meeting federal clean air standards, said Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas, the amendment's sponsor.

Under current Environmental Protection Agency rules, new industries are permitted to move into such areas only if the industry does not increase the net level of air pollution. To accomplish this, a new industry must persuade an existing one to reduce its pollution, or buy another polluting industry's plant and close it down.

Eckhardt's amendment would allow states to waive this regulatory scheme, if they adopted their own plans. Such plans would have to guarantee "continual aggregate reductions" in air pollution until tough statutory standards are met — by 1987 for photochemical oxidants and by 1982 for other contaminants.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the health subcommittee and manager of the clean air legislation, backed the Eckhardt amendment, calling it "an accommodation to help areas that are the most badly polluted, in effect giving them a 10-year period to adjust while allowing growth."

Recent government studies show that as many as 88 per cent of the areas in the country being monitored for air quality fail to meet the standards established by the 1970 Clean Air Act.

Under existing law, all regions of the nation are required to meet those standards by May 31. Failure to do so could bar new industries from moving into noncomplying states. The House measure, in effect, extends this deadline for from five to 10 years.

The clean air legislation would also prohibit "significant deterioration" of areas that now have clean air.

And it would give U.S. automakers a one-year delay before meeting tough new automobile tailpipe emission standards, a provision supported by the Carter administration.

Efforts to grant similar extensions of Clean Air Act deadlines passed both House and Senate last year in different forms, but died when the two chambers were unable to resolve their differences in the closing days of the 1976 session.

Oil spill continues

STAVANGER, Norway (AP) — Oil streaking from the seabed to the surface faster than the speed of sound pushed open a specially fashioned clamp and foiled a new attempt today at choking off a runaway gusher that has spilled some six million gallons of oil into the North Sea.

It was the fourth unsuccessful attempt in two days to cap the well, which "blew out" last Friday. On Thursday, using different equipment, Texan-led blowout specialists tried and failed three times to stop the geyser of oil.

Phillips Petroleum Co. officials reported after today's attempt that the clamps, called "two-inch pipe rams," held only momentarily before being forced open.

The troubleshooters were trying to keep the clamps in place to channel the powerful fourinch-wide stream of oil into a two-inch-wide wellhead opening. They could then swing around a four-ton stopper to halt the flow.

The company officials reported today's failure shortly after the arrival of Paul "Red" Adair, the oil world's premier blowout killer, at a supply base for the runaway rig.

Adair, whose Houston, Tex., company specializes in capping blowouts and putting out oil well fires, arrived here to take command of the effort to cap the well, in the middle of the North Sea 168 miles west of this Norwegian oil center.

Two specialists from his company have been in charge of the troubleshooting team.

Pope Paul, archbishop embrace in peace kiss

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI and the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Donald Coggan, embraced in a "kiss of peace" today and issued a joint declaration that study should continue so that the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches "may be led along the path towards unity."

The declaration, on the next-to-last day of Dr. Coggan's ecumenical visit to Rome, conceded serious obstacles to unity between the world's 600 million Catholics and 60 million Anglicans, but it added:

"Christian hope manifests itself in prayer and action — in prudence but also in courage. We pledge ourselves and exhort the faithful of the Roman Catholic Church and of the Anglican communion to live and work courageously in reconciliation and unity in our common Lord."

The declaration was issued after the 67-year-old archbishop and the 79-year-old Pope prayed together and embraced at a Christian unity service in the Vatican's Sistine Chapel.

The statement said that dialogue between the churches thus far has cleared away many misconceptions but that important differences persist, particularly regarding remarriage after divorce.

The statement also appeared to touch on what the Vatican sees as a new obstacle to unity — the ordination of women as priests in the Episcopal Church in the United States, which is part of the Anglican communion. This seemed to be what the declaration meant by "serious obstacles remain both of the past and of recent origin."

In brief remarks during the prayer service Dr. Coggan spoke of the difficulty the church sometimes encounters and said that in countries such as Uganda church members "work in considerable strain. Our brethren suffer greatly."

The Anglican archbishop of Uganda was killed earlier this year after having been arrested by President Idi Amin's regime.

Chicken processors given big tax break

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the energy crisis and other items simmered on a back burner, the Senate gave a chicken processing company in Maine and another in Arkansas a special bill that will save them thousands of dollars in taxes.

The special tax bill for the chicken processors won easy approval Thursday, despite complaints that it amounted to piecemeal legislating for special interests.

"We're not talking about a little mom-and-pop store, we're talking about tens of millions of dollars," shouted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., one of the few who opposed the bill on the Senate floor.

Despite his objections, the Senate voted 85 to 12 to postpone for one year a requirement that the two chicken processing firms switch to a new method of accounting.

The proposed chicken amendment was pushed by Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., on behalf of Corbett Enterprises of Maine and Hudson Foods Inc., of Rogers, Ark.

Kennedy contended the issue was a classic example of special legislation that only benefitted one or two taxpayers. Muskie and Bumpers conceded the bill would only help the two chicken processors.

But without the legislation, Muskie argued, Corbett would have to pay up to $1.5 million a year more in taxes for up to 10 years.

The issue involved a part of the 1976 tax laws which required farming enterprises to switch from the cash accounting method to the accrual method for computing taxes.

Bumpers said changes in the law have meant smaller firms paid higher taxes and were put at a competitive disadvantage.

Hudson has gross sales of $65 million and processes about 42 million chickens a year. Corbett, which has six plants in five states, processes about 83 million chickens a year, according to Muskie aides.

Woman held in burglary

West End Sheriff's deputies have arrested a 19-year-old Corona woman and are searching for a second person in connection with the burglary of a home at 6830 Jasper Ave., Alta Loma, about 10 p.m. Thursday.

Booked in the West End jail was Cynthia Gomez. She was arrested inside of the home and booked for investigation of burglary, said investigators.

Deputies said they received a call from a neighbor who reported seeing two Latins kick open a sliding-glass door in the residence across the street.

She said the two had entered the home when she called the sheriff's office. When deputies arrived minutes later they found the woman still inside.

The second person in the alleged burglary was described as a Latin, 5 feet 8, about 20 years of age of heavy build. He was wearing a blue and white jacket and Levis. Deputies said they recovered the car believed to belong to the person being sought.

Pellet gun fired into bar; man hit in foot

West End sheriff's deputies are searching for the men who drove through the old North Town section of Cucamonga Thursday night and fired a pellet gun into a bar and also wounded a 33-year-old man in the foot.

Police said that Ernesto Santidanez of Cucamonga was walking down the street near 25th Street and Turner Avenue about 10:30 p.m. when he heard a series of shots.

Santidanez told deputies he fell to the ground and felt a pain in his right foot. He discovered he had been shot.

About the same time, the owners of the El Tigre Bar at 25th Street and Turner Avenue reported that several men in a red van fired several shots into the bar. The bar patrons told deputies that the van was followed by four other vehicles.

Deputies said that Santidanez was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland where he was treated for his foot wound and later released.

Deputies said the motive for the shooting incidents has yet to be determined.

Ex-policeman pleads not guilty to kidnaping, slaying

Billy Joe McIlvain, 32-year-old retired San Gabriel policeman, pleaded innocent Thursday to charges that he kidnaped and murdered David Dominguez, 19, in McIlvain's West Covina home Feb. 28.

McIlvain entered the plea before Los Angeles Superior Court Judge William B. Keene when he appeared for arraignment. He was ordered to remain in jail without access to bail.

The trial originally was scheduled for Pomona Superior Court, but was transferred to Los Angeles because of its expected length of five weeks to 2½ months.

McIlvain claimed that he shot Dominguez, a reputed San Gabriel street gang member, while Dominguez was holding him hostage that day. But police later charged that it was McIlvain who had kidnaped Dominguez.

McIlvain retired from the police department on a medical disability claim as the result of an injury he suffered in an encounter with the gang in San Gabriel, authorities said.

Victim loses cash, pants to robbers

An Ontario man was beaten and robbed early this morning by two men who offered to give him a ride home but instead drove him to Olivedale Park on east Eighth Street in Upland and attacked him.

Police said the victim, after being beaten by the two men, had his pants and underwear cut off him by the attackers.

He fled partially nude to a home on Second Avenue where he sought help from the resident.

The victim told officers that he had been drinking with the two men at a bar in downtown Upland and decided to go home.

He said he accepted the ride offered by the two men but instead of being taken home was driven to the park. He said the men stopped their car and shoved him out where they began to beat him and took his wallet containing a small amount of cash.

He said the robbers then cut his clothes off but he managed to escape.

The victim described both men as being whites about 5 feet 8. One was 26 years old with brown hair and the other about 22 years old with brown hair. He said they were driving a dark-over-light color two-door American sports-car.

Size of maximum CB fines will be doubled by FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission is doubling the maximum size of fines it hands out to citizens band radio operators who violate regulations.

The increase in the maximum fine, from $50 to $100, is designed to reduce violations, FCC officials said Tuesday.

The new schedule of fines includes:

—$100 for use of an unauthorized frequency or use of power greater than the amount authorized.

—$75 for communicating over a distance of more than 130 miles or operating with an overheight antenna.

—$50 for failure to identify transmissions with assigned call sign or repeated failure to reply to FCC correspondence.

Bicyclist injured

A bike rider was injured and an Ontario motorist was arrested in the collision of their vehicles in Claremont Tuesday night.

The bike rider, Paul F. Swartz, 36, of Claremont, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital for treatment and was released later.

Police reported that Swartz was riding westbound in Foothill Boulevard east of Mountain Avenue when his bike was hit from behind by a pickup truck driven by James Lowell Hobbs, 29, of 1752 Del Norte St., Ontario. The bike was a total wreck, police said.

Hobbs, a meatcutter, was booked on suspicion of felonious drunken driving.

Chino cycle rider hurt

A Chino teen-ager, riding a motorcycle along the Southern Pacific right-of-way in Pomona, was injured seriously Thursday when his bike went out of control and struck an embankment, police reported.

The rider, James William Harris, 16, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where his condition today was termed serious. He was in the hospital's intensive-care unit.

Officer Walter Barkley reported that the accident occurred east of Gibbs Street while Harris was riding westbound. The officer reported that witnesses said the motorcycle was traveling at high speed. The motorcycle apparently struck a rock along the railroad tracks before the mishap.

Track ace treated after knife attack

Marcus Jennings, 19, Pomona, a Chaffey College track star, was released Thursday from Ontario Community Hospital where he had been treated for stab wounds.

According to Ontario police, Jennings was stabbed twice in the chest Wednesday night during an argument at Sultana Avenue and Acacia Street over money.

Police are seeking a 31-year-old Ontario resident.

Oil overcharge refund would only be pennies

WASHINGTON (AP) — If 20 major oil companies decide to lower the price of gasoline to pay back $336 million in alleged overcharges, you could see a brief reduction in prices at the gas pump.

But not much and not for long.

The oil companies are denying vehemently the Federal Energy Administration's charge Thursday that they artificially inflated the price of oil purchased from foreign subsidiaries between October 1973 and May 1975.

During that time, the United States kept price controls on oil produced within this country, while foreign oil prices tripled.

The companies can appeal the FEA's ruling to the agency or in the federal courts.

And an FEA spokesman said that even if the oil companies eventually are forced to refund overcharges, the companies still could keep as much as half the $336 million.

They would be allowed to recalculate import deals in which they did not charge U.S. consumers the maximum allowed under the price control law.

One option the companies could take to pay back the overcharges would be a temporary price cut at the gasoline pump.

But with more than 714 million gallons of gasoline sold daily in the United States, a rebate at the pumps might consist of only a penny or two for a few days or weeks.

The companies could also choose some other method of returning the money to the public, including temporarily holding off on some future price increase instead of rolling back current prices

Gulf Oil Corp. led the FEA's list of alleged overcharges with $79.6 million, or 23 per cent of the total.

"Gulf categorically denies that it has violated FEA regulations concerning the price of crude imports," a Gulf spokesman said.

"The company has met with the FEA on numerous occasions over the past three years in an effort to resolve this matter. Gulf continues to maintain that its pricing method was in compliance with the law and regulations in effect at the time."

Gulf and other companies contended that the FEA changed its rules after many of the transactions were completed.

Standard Oil of Indiana, listed with $55 million in alleged overcharges, accused the agency of "retroactive rulemaking." It said it had "followed the letter and the spirit of the regulations" in effect at the time.

The FEA has been auditing the oil company "transfer payments" to foreign subsidiaries since 1974.

In 1975 the agency charged the companies with overcharging $275 million during the 20 months in question. The companies objected, the FEA reviewed its accounting and came up with the $336 million figure instead.

The FEA made the allegations in what are formally called "Notices of Proposed Disallowance."

FEA Administrator John F. O'Leary said the notices to the companies "fulfill a commitment the agency has made that the prices consumers pay for their oil products be based on fair market value for crude oil, rather than artificially high prices paid by U.S. companies to their own foreign subsidiaries."

The other companies and their alleged overcharges are:

Arco $50.1 million; Texaco $31.7 million; Sun Oil $28.9 million; Marathon $18.1 million; Phillips $15.5 million; Union $14.5 million; Mobil $11.5 million; Standard Oil of California $8.1 million.

Also, Exxon $5.6 million; Ashland $4 million; Murphy $3.9 million; Amerada Hess $2.8 million; Charter $2.1 million; Conoco $2.1 million; KerrMcGee $920,000; Standard Oil of Ohio $868,000; Getty $517,000, and Cities $117,000.

Times Square sign darkened

NEW YORK (AP) — The plug has been pulled on a Times Square tourist attraction, and a nationally televised New Year's Eve tradition could be imperiled.

Saying he wanted to protest the West 42nd Street area prostitution and pornography boom, Alex Parker turned off power on Thursday to the electric billboard that flashes news headlines from the walls of a building on Broadway.

Parker, who own the building, also said he may do away with the tradition of lowering a large illuminated ball from the rooftop to usher in the New Year.

"I'm not going to spend another penny to maintain pimps, prostitutes and criminals," Parker said. He estimated that it costs him $275,000 a year to run the electronic news service.

He said the sign will stay dark until he collects 100,000 signatures on petitions demanding a cleanup of Times Square. Until then, another electronic sign will flash the number of signatures collected each day.

Shops for pornographic books, films, and sex devices have flourished in the area along with an increase in prostitution and muggings despite a police crackdown led by Mayor Abraham Beame.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — In an industry largely automated, James Sechrist handles — literally handles — $6 million worth of tobacco each month.

As tobacco flows past him at the R. J. Reynolds plant here, his hand decides, by touch, whether it has the required moisture content. For tobacco to be the right type it must have 12.5 to 13.5 per cent moisture content to be processed.

Jaycees' party at Disneyland

'Space Mountain' added

Valley residents who attend the Pomona Jaycees' party at Disneyland on May 30 may be among the first to see the park's latest attraction, "Space Mountain."

Tickets will entitle holders to this new addition and 50 other major attractions from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Tickets, at $5.25 per person, may be obtained at the Pomona Chamber of Commerce office, 100 Pomona Mall West; at any Hamilton's Drug Store, or any branch of the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Astronauts" who board "Space Mountain" rockets will experience a flight through the vast darkness of outer space.

As each rocket climbs toward the high point of the journey, it will pass through a meteor shower and then through a solar energizer, a vast solar field, stretching off to infinity on each side.

The descent will begin as rockets race through the darkness.

During the Jaycee's party, guests also may visit other attractions including "It's a Small World," "Pirates of the Caribbean" and the "Matterhorn Bobsleds."

English Open Show planned

The Ridge Riders will hold their spring "B" rated English Open Show Sunday at the Ridge Rider Equestrian Center, one-quarter mile south of the San Bernardino Freeway on Citrus Avenue in West Covina.

Seventeen hunter classes, including two jumpers, will go in the morning, with 11 equitation and pleasure classes after a lunch break. As a convenience to exhibitors, show chairman Roxanne Rohde has announced the innovation of two warm-up rings. One will be set up with practice jumps for use by all entrants. The second to be used by the class currently jumping.

Nick Karizissis will judge the classes. Table I will be used for junior jumpers, touches to count, and Table II for open jumper, touches not to count.

Silver trays will be awarded to first place winners. Ribbons will go to first- through sixth-place winners. Silver will also be awarded to the high point horse-and-rider combination of the day.

Entry fees will be $5 per class; $6 per medal class. Registration will begin at 7:25 a.m. with the first class showing at 8:15 a.m.

Exhibitors wanting more information may contact Mrs. Rohde at (213) 331-6786 prior to show or by field telephone, (213) 331-9226, on Sunday.

On campus

Claremont's theological library has joined libraries across the country in converting their cataloguing system to that used by the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Librarian James Overbeck has announced completion of the process, and in celebration is hosting a reception for users and friends Friday, 3:30 to 6 p.m. The public is invited.

The SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY library at Claremont was built in 1968 and houses 105,000 volumes, growing at 5,000 per year. Users have immediate access to another 250,000 books through interchange with the Western Theological Library Association, comprising seven seminaries in Southern California. It was possible to bring only 5,000 books from the library's holdings at USC when the school moved from Los Angeles to Claremont in 1957.

The reception will feature tours of the stacks, the rare book room which displays volumes printed in the Guttenberg era 500 years ago, the Dead Sea Scrolls Center, and special chamber music by students and faculty.

William Hudspeth, a biopsychologist, will be featured Monday at a public colloquium at CLAREMONT MEN'S COLLEGE. The event, sponsored by the college's psychology department, will be held at 8 p.m. in Bauer 33.

A specialist in the research of the brain and higher nervous systems, Hudspeth is director of the Neurophysiology Clinic and associate professor of behavioral biology, School of Medical Sciences, University of Nevada, Reno.

His most recent brain research has involved the recording of electrical activity in different parts of the hemispheres and using a computer to assist in teaching activity in successive areas.

His topic Monday is "Neurometric Evaluation of Behavioral and Psychological Processes."

Two International Relations Colloquium luncheon lectures will be presented in Oldenborg Dining Hall, POMONA COLLEGE, next Thursday and Friday.

The first talk, at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, will be "The Church as Actor in International Affairs" by Beverly Keene, consultant to the Church and Society Division of the United Presbyterian Church in New York.

Keene was an observer at the International Food Conference in Rome in 1974 and attended the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development in Nairobi.

On Friday, at 12:30 p.m., John E. Merriam, director of information and public affairs for the World Bank, will discuss "Basic Human Needs and the Right to Service: New Approaches of the World Bank."

Both lectures are open to the public. There will be a charge for lunch to off-campus participants.

At Pomona High Tuesday

'Band Jubilee' scheduled

The Pomona Unified School District will hold its third annual "Band Jubilee" Tuesday at the Pomona High School gymnasium.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. with the combined bands of Garey, Ganesha and Pomona high schools playing the national anthem. Each band will then play three selections on its own.

The finale will include the combined 175 band members playing the "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken" and "Washington Post March."

Robert Scott, chairman of the district's music education department, will lead the combined members. The Ganesha band will be directed by Don Root, the Pomona band by John Wooten, and the Garey band by Raymond Woods.

The band program was started three years ago with the assistance of the Pomona Kiwanis Club's Youth Service Committee. Club members are also involved with this year's presentation.

The selections will include a variety of music including show tunes and popular melodies.

Tickets are available from any band member at the three high schools or at the door. Donation is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

At Chaffey College Saturday

Fashion fabric festival set

The public is invited to a free spring fashion and fabric festival at Chaffey College Saturday.

The day's activities will begin at 8:30 a.m. when visitors may meet persons in the home sewing field, including Jean Hardy. Exhibits will be available for viewing from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A fashion show is being brought to the community from New York.

The fashions being shown for home sewing include designer patterns featuring Ann Klein, Carol Horn, Bill Blass, and Diane Von Furstenberg. All fashions will have accessories for spring and summer by Bullocks West Covina.

In addition to Miss Hardy, originator of Jean Hardy Patterns, speakers will include Lois M. Brestoff of Pellon Corp.; Marilyn Bockstanz of Fantastic Fit Products; the Shady Ladies of Laguna Beach; Gail Giberson, author of "Primarily Patchwork"; Clarence Pierce of Fabric Care Institute; Lee Tillinghast, color consultant; Marcia Shuh, lingerie specialist; Sue Wright, Bernina Machine embroidery instructor; Clara Berg, demonstrating use of scarves as accessories; Mary Lou Waldrop, outdoor equipment specialist; and Joan Lare, on the creative use of striped fabrics.

Exhibits by fabric store and fashion related companies will showcase new items on the market. Consumers will be able to update knowledge and easily familiarize themselves with the wide range of products and services currently available for home sewers.

This free program is cosponsored by Chaffey noncredit education and Community Services.

Person-to-person

ANNE O'FERRALL of Pasadena represented the Pomona Chapter at the United Nations Association of the United States of America at the association's biennial convention last week in New York City.

She was one of a 26-member Southern California Division delegation.

This delegation introduced resolutions praising President Carter for his defense of human rights and calling on the government to help in the conversion of military industry to peaceful work. They also requested stringent environmental protection.

Population

Mexico's population increased from 42.9 million in 1965 to 60.1 million in mid-1975, according to the Population Reference Bureau.

Members sought for air council

The South Coast Air Quality Management District is seeking 30 persons to serve on its newly-created advisory council which will consult and advise the district's governing board on numerous environmental issues, said Los Angeles County Supervisor Ed Edelman, a board member.

The council's chief responsibility will be to advise the district board on existing and proposed air pollution control rules and regulations, and on the Air Quality Management Plan.

Serving for two-year terms, members must reside within the four-county district (Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino), and representative of interests such as health, industry, conservation, labor unions, legal, public utility, consumer, agriculture and transportation.

Edelman said the advisory council meetings will be held throughout the districts and will be open to the general public. Although members will be serving without pay, they will be allowed expenses for mileage and parking fees when attending the meetings.

The council members will elect their own officers, form subcommittees, establish by-laws and a code of conduct governing their activities, and will receive assignments from the district board comprised of nine elected officials and a governor's appointee.

Persons interested in the council may contact the public information division by calling (213) 443-3931 or writing to the South Coast Air Quality Management District, Public Information Division, 9420 Telstar Ave., El Monte.

Applications for membership to the advisory council must be filed by May 25.

Political arena

REP. JIM LLOYD, D-West Covina, will represent the Armed Services Committee and the House Science and Technology Committee when he attends the Paris Air Show in June. He is a member of both committees.

The Paris Air Show, largest international show of its kind, is an annual exhibition of today's aviation and electronic world. This year, 92 companies will participate along with representatives of other countries including France, England, Israel and the Soviet Union.

Lloyd expects to spend several days at Le Bourget Airport outside of Paris inspecting international exhibits and meeting representatives of foreign corporations to discuss new technological developments in aviation.

ASSEMBLYMAN BILL LANCASTER, R-Covina, said Caltrans has informed him that landscaping projects along the San Bernardino Freeway in West Covina will go to bid soon.

He said the first project, to run from East Azusa Avenue to East Holt Avenue, will be advertised beginning May 23.

The second project, from La Puente Avenue to East Azusa Avenue, will be advertised beginning June 6.

SEN. RUBEN S. AYALA, D-Chino, chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Water Resources, has created a five-member legislative task force to advise him and the committee on "the best, the most tenable, approach to meeting our state's long range water needs."

Task force members are William R. Gianelli, Ronald B. Robie, William Warne and Harvey Banks.

Stephen A. Macola, chief consultant to the committee, is an ex-officio member.

Ayala said he planned to follow recommendations of the task force.

REP. JOHN H. ROUSSELOT, R-San Marino, said the food stamp program needs a complete, thorough and honest reform.

"It is unconscionable that the current majority in the House and Senate seem totally incapable of doing what taxpaying Americans want when it comes to the food stamp program — total reform.

"Instead, we are being offered, under the guise of pretended reform, bills which massively would liberalize the food stamp program.

"Countless thousands more would quality. Benefits would be increased. Work requirements would be lessened. Under bills now pending in the House and Senate agriculture committees, and other amendments they are considering, more than $2 billion in new tax costs could be added to the program," Rousselot said.

A 40-point comprehensive program offered by Rousselot would save between $1 billion and $1.5 billion annually.

He wants to place an income ceiling at proverty level plus 15 per cent for eligibility, eliminate those who own expensive homes and cars, disqualify strikers and college students, require recipients of food stamps to hunt for jobs and remove junk foods from items which may be purchased with food stamps.

Another provision in his bill makes illegal aliens ineligible to receive food stamps.

Claremont retains rural flavor in tract plan

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

People buying homes in the 18-acre Hughes Development Corp. tract at the northwest corner of Mills Avenue and Alamosa Drive in Claremont may be surprised to learn that they have two rows of citrus trees in front of their houses.

The City of Claremont intends to retain the rural flavor of the area, of which 2.3 square miles was annexed to the city as of Jan. 1.

The City Council this week approved a tentative tract map for the Hughes firm.

City Associate Director of Planning William Wojtkowski discussed for the council the public improvements and the intent of the new rural standards.

Wojtkowski said that the city has suggested the possibility of leaving the existing pavement and shoulder and incorporating an additional 24 feet of dedicated easement for retention of at least two rows of citrus trees along the entire perimeter of the tract.

The council approved the formation of a landscape maintenance district for future care of the trees.

With the exception of Mills Avenue and going according to the city's rural standards, the streets in the subdivision will have a minimal amount of pavement (30 feet with bike lanes, 26 feet without), no sidewalks, and no curbs or gutters. An eight-foot-wide graded shoulder will serve to carry water runoff and to provide parking area.

In other matters, the council has taken the following actions:

—Accepted a staff recommendation to contract with the Harvey Mudd Engineering Clinic for the spending of up to $10,000 for the development of a homeowner energy and water conservation package funded through Housing and Community Development Act funds.

—Awarded a contract for the purchase of a $31,574.22 street sweeper from FMC Corp., Pomona.

—Approved the change of a street name in a Hughes tract from Eagle Grove Road to Yankton Avenue. The street name of Eagle Grove Road had been chosen and recorded by both Lusk Development and Hughes Development before the city staff realized the duplication.

—Approved an agreement between the City of Claremont and Domenico Andriani for the annexation of about three acres between Amador Street and Foothill Boulevard.

For measles immunizations

Valley health centers hold special clinics

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The Pomona Health Center and other county health clinics in the East San Gabriel Valley will be open for special measles immunization clinics Saturday to give students a last minute chance to be vaccinated before the Monday deadline for Los Angeles schools.

Since the deadline in San Bernardino County for exclusion from schools of students who are not immunized is not until May 15, no Saturday clinics are scheduled in the West End.

However, parents in West End communities will be able to take students to five clinics scheduled in May.

Health department officials estimated Thursday that as many as 50,000 students in Los Angeles County may be barred from classes Monday because they did not get the vaccinations. The May 1 deadline was set four weeks ago, although all students were supposed to have been properly vaccinated before schools opened last fall, under state law.

Parents are warned to arrive in the clinics as early as possible since long lines are expected at some locations.

"We must close the clinics promptly at 5 p.m. since much of the help is volunteer," said Miss Mary Lou Ginther, volunteer coordinator for the East San Gabriel Valley.

There have been more than 2,100 reported cases of measles in Los Angeles County since October and county health officials estimate there have been another 18,000 unreported cases. Two deaths and five cases of measles encephalitis have been reported.

This year's epidemic is the worst since measles vaccines came into wide use in the 1960s.

The clinics will be open Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Pomona Health Center, 750 S. Park Ave., Pomona; La Casa Community Center, 214 E. El Monte Ave., San Gabriel; 15930 Central Ave., La Puente; and 3550 N. Eastmont Ave., El Monte.

The West End Health Center, 1020 W. Sixth St., Ontario, will be open from 4 to 7 p.m. on May 9.

Clinics are planned Tuesday and May 10 from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Cucamonga Health Office, 9880 Jersey Blvd., Cucamonga; and from 3 to 7 p.m. on Wednesday and May 11 at the Chino Library, 13180 Central Ave., Chino.

Chino board not ready to approve smoking on campus

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

It may be a "gray day in May" before students can legally smoke at Chino High School.

In fact, Chino school board members voiced reservations this week over a proposal to establish a designated smoking area on the campus.

School boards are given the option under a state law effective in January, 1976 to authorize smoking areas at high schools.

Chino board members were in no hurry to establish smoking areas, however, and postponed action on the proposal presented by the students.

John La Brucherie, Chino High's student body president, urged the board to approve smoking areas "for the benefit of the non-smoking student and for betterment of our school."

He cited the fact an overwhelming majority (72 per cent) of the students and teachers support a designated area.

And, the current no-smoking policy on campus is "very difficult to enforce." said La Brucherie. "Oftentimes before the smoker is caught, the evidence is destroyed. A designated smoking area would alleviate this problem."

He added that teachers are taking time from their jobs to enforce the rule, and the "non-smoking student has to enter smoke-filled restrooms."

La Brucherie proposed two smoking areas on campus — one near the shop, the other near a patio across from the multipurpose room. He said anyone smoking outside of the area would be suspended from school, and the designated areas will be policed by school proctors.

Board members indicated they wanted to defer any decision on the smoking area until at least June 1, when results of a parent attitude survey will be available. Parents are being asked their opinion.

Trustee Al McCombs expressed some reservations over the smoking plan, and debated the issue with La Brucherie.

McCombs wondered how students could police the bathrooms for smokers better with designated areas.

He indicated students should be policing the situation now, but La Brucherie said students "are not part of the administration."

La Brucherie indicated he did not believe in "finking" on students or being a "tattletale. If a student wants to ruin his body (smoking), that's his right."

McCombs said the "monkey was being placed on his back" and students would have to convince him it was the administration's job to police smoking. "I feel people being tromped on (non-smokers) have to rise up and say they've had enough."

Board member Augustine Tapia asked if it was illegal to sell tobacco to students under 18, and wondered if the school district could face some legal problems over a smoking area.

Supervisors seeking halt to Civil Service protection

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors wants Civil Service protection ended for most of the county's 70,000 employes.

The board, at the instigation of its chairman, Edmund Edelman approved the proposal that could limit the powers of the commission substantially.

Under the proposal, the commission would still be in charge of hiring and promotions but would lose its ability to hear grievances, to review dismissals, and to serve as an appeals board.

The measure, which would require an amendment to the county charter, will be returned to the county Board of Supervisors in three months along with recommendations by county department heads and the county's economy and efficiency commission. At that time the board will hold hearings to discuss its proposed action.

"The over protection given to public employes has run up tremendous costs for the county and has caused gross inefficiencies because of unproductive employes who cannot be dismissed from their jobs," Edelman explained.

He said the employes already are receiving protection from their unions and a similar advantage through the Civil Service commission is a duplication.

"Actually the only elements of Civil Service which are truly central to democratic government are the merit selection in the hiring and promotion procedures," Edelman said. "These provisions we intend to keep."

Its 35th anniversary

Many activities highlight Poly Vue

Academic exhibits, a barbecue, horse shows and a rodeo are highlights of the many exhibits and activities scheduled on the campus of Cal Poly Pomona through Sunday.

Poly Vue 1977 marks the 35th anniversary of Poly Vue. The annual open house has as its theme this year, "Poly on the Move," representing the growth and progress of the university.

Highlight of Saturday's exhibits, open to the public, are the 20th anniversary of the landscape architecture department, with exhibits by alumni and students; demonstrations and tours of the electron microscope facilities; egg-dropping and paper airplane flying contests and a miniature golf course.

Events new to this year's program include a pinewood derby — a miniature soap-box derby with cars constructed by participants from pine-block assembly kits, and a display (and sale) of art works by students and faculty.

From noon Saturday, the speaker's platform on the quad will be the setting for free entertainment ranging from a mariachi band to the Cal Poly Jazz Band and folk dancers.

Starting at 11 a.m. Saturday and continuing until 2:15 p.m. will be the traditional deep-pit barbecue dinner. Beef, prepared by wrapping it in burlap and placing it in a deep pit for about 10 hours, will be served along with beans, salad and ice cream.

The meat is available for sale after the barbecue.

Most of the campus buildings are open with special exhibits for the entire family ranging from historical exhibits to the latest in space technology.

Horse shows are scheduled Saturday and Sunday in the W.K. Kellogg Arabian Horse Show Center and a collegiate rodeo, drawing entries from throughout the western states, will start at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in an area near the football field.

Another new attraction this year will be the New Games Picnic Sunday afternoon, designed to encourage participation of the entire family in games which require no skills, just enthusiasm.

The community is invited to participate in the many Poly Vue events on the campus.

For additional information about the weekend, contact the Poly Vue committee at 598-4275.

Low bid for freeway link now under review

State officials today were reviewing the apparent low bid for construction of the last segment of the Devore Freeway which will link the San Bernardino and Pomona freeways east of Ontario.

The three bids submitted for the project were opened Thursday afternoon in Los Angeles.

According to a spokesman for the California Department of Transportation, the low bid, in the amount of $9,030,209, was submitted by the E. L. Yeager Construction Corp., of Riverside.

Second low bidder on the project was the Kasler Corp., of San Bernardino, at $9.4 million. The third and highest bid, $9.9 million, was submitted by Novo-Rados Construction Co., Inc., Chino.

Once a bid is approved and the contract awarded, the spokesman said, construction will begin within a six- to eight-week period.

Building the freeway segment will require approximately two years with completion tentatively targeted for late winter or early spring 1979.

This project will extend the Devore Freeway from its present termination at the San Bernardino Freeway interchange across the railroad tracks and 1.2 miles south to connect with the Pomona Freeway.

Eventually, the Devore Freeway will extend south to San Diego.

The 14-mile freeway segment, costing $57 million and extending from the Barstow Freeway north of San Bernardino to the San Bernardino Freeway near the Ontario Motor Speedway, was opened for public use last September.

SANBAG relays report on change

Transit funds up for a vote?

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The West Valley Transit Service Authority board was told Thursday the loss or retention of up to $800,000 in federal transit operating funds "will come down to just a political vote in a week."

Wes McDaniel, executive director of the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) which acts as the transit planning consultant to Omnitrans, gave an update on the status of a move to change the formula for federal dollars earmarked for operating capital.

The issue is now "clouded in confusion" because of conflicting recommendations to the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG) from two of its advisory committees. The controversy, said McDaniel, centers mainly around political manuevering on the part of Southern California Rapid Transit District (SCRTD). The large operator stands to gain considerable dollars with the new formula at the expense of Omnitrans and Orange County Transit District.

In a letter to the SCAG executive committee, it was noted that from 1974-75 fiscal year the distribution of the funds from the Urban Mass Transit Authority's section five account was distributed to Los Angeles, Orange and western San Bernardino counties on the basis of population and denity.

However, unknown to Omnitrans and Orange County, the committee changed that formula in December 1976. The new formula, effective in the upcoming fiscal year, would allocate funds on the basis of need "as reflected in each operator's projected short range transit program. It also captured everybody's carryover money, put it back in the overall pot and included it in the redistribution," said officials.

SCRTD, operating in the red by at least $10 million, stands to gain the largest chunk; and transit planning by the other two operators would be severely handicapped, said McDaniel.

With this in mind, the SANBAG executive board earlier in April took action recommending to SCAG that the old formula be reinstated and that future allocations from 1981-82 include an efficiency factor.

The transportation and utilities committee (TUC) of SCAG directed the transit advisory committee (TAC) to find a reasonable solution to the pending war of the operators. TAC's subsequent recommendation was that the old formula be retained through 1980-81; the percentage split be frozen at the 1976 level with 81 per cent to Los Angeles County, 17 to Orange and not quite 2 per cent to San Bernardino.

The recommendation also said that each county transportation decide the allocations; carryover amounts be protected through 1980-81; and a service needs efficiency formula be developed from 1981-82.

The action came on a motion from Long Beach, McDaniel reported, and was supported by all but SCRTD and Carson.

"This recommendation was reversed the next day by TUC with a RTD show of force," McDaniel said. "It didn't really get reversed completely, just confused. And that's the state it goes to the SCAG executive committee next Thursday. It will come down to just a political vote in a week."

No 'F' grades in Bonita district create problems

A controversial policy of not failing students at the high school level is causing problems in the Bonita Unified School District.

School board members learned this week the absence of "F" (failing) grades at San Dimas and Bonita high schools was creating a number of difficulties.

Students are "taking advantage" of the situation and tend to drop courses before completing them because they know a failing grade won't be given, said officials.

Under the old policy, students would receive an "F" if they dropped a class.

Instead of an "F", no grade (NG) is given and students end up minus the credit for the course — but without a failing mark.

Counselors have been having problems computing grade point averages with many "NG's" turning up. They have recommended to the school board the "F" grade be returned to Bonita schools.

Trustees postponed action in the matter, however, until a future meeting.

The board adopted the policy of not giving failing grades in 1973.

Profits should be encouraged

Just as the shin bone is attached to the leg bone, so corporate profits and capital outlay are attached to employe compensation. No one need tell the businessman what labor costs him today. All businessmen have experienced the upward trend.

For instance, worker compensation has risen more than six times since 1950. From under $200 billion nationwide annually, to more than $1 trillion. (That's a one, followed by 12 zeroes.)

However, a most alarming trend pointed out in the 1976 annual report of United States Steel implicates government employment growth. Since 1950, government employment of civilians has grown 150 per cent. Today, one of every six Americans works for government . . . federal, state and local.

On the other hand, private employment has grown only 36 per cent in the same time period. Hand in hand with government employment has been government spending. That has grown eight times since 1950 (industry spending has grown only five times).

Government spending accounts for 34 per cent of the gross national product. That helps fuel inflation, it diverts money from possible investment in job-producing operations and it creates shortages of goods people want and need.

And where does government get the money to employ? Taxes. And taxes are paid by people and business. Too, if government doesn't have enough, it borrows vast vums. In effect, mortgages the future.

What can the private sector do? It can do more to help eliminate the bad image of business. It can show people that profits ought to be encouraged. Corporate profits mean investment, and that means jobs.

Businessmen can continue to intensify their efforts to impinge upon runaway government growth and spending. Government's role is to build confidence, not cause uncertainty. Employers should reinforce in our legislators' minds the need for tax law changes. Changes that will encourage people and companies to invest in the job-creating productions.

Chambers of commerce and other businessmen's groups have done much to further the stride of business, but there is much yet to be done. If they keep in priority efforts to reduce governmental interference and regulation they can bring about a positive trend in business growth for the future.

Simply stated, jobs and the economy are main concerns if business and industry are to maintain their own future.

Onward and upward execs

Anytime the number of people looking for jobs increases, it usually means the economy isn't doing so well. But not always.

Job-hunting by executives posted a 58 per cent rise during the first three months of 1977, reports an international executive search firm, Eastman & Beaudine, Inc. This was 10 per cent higher than the same period last year. In some fields, such as banking, marketing, personnel, sales and engineering, there were increases of more than 100 per cent.

The reason this is good news, of course, is because the executives looking for jobs for the most part already have jobs. They are simply looking for bigger and better ones, and now seems to be a good time to do it.

As an official of the search firm puts it, "The heightened pace of (executive job-hunting) activity reflects a growing confidence in the nation's economy."

Capping a safety problem

Life is full of little frustrations, and among them are those pesky safety caps on aspirin bottles and a host of other products.

Not only are the caps child-proof, they often defy the best efforts of adults to open them, particularly elderly adults or those with arthritic hands — although people who don't have any little children to worry about may request pharmacists to put their medicines in bottles with ordinary caps.

The frustrations pale into insignificance, however, compared to what the safety caps have accomplished. According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, the number of children killed or sickened by ingesting potentially harmful products dropped by 47 per cent in just three years.

Aspirin poisoning alone caused 46 reported deaths and sickened 8,146 children in 1972. In 1975, only 17 children died and 4,840 were made sick.

This is one example of federally inspired frustration everyone can heartily approve of.

All that glitters . . .

Dear Editor:

Recently I attended an event at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds publicized as a sale of "Original Art" presented by "Starving Artists," a group from Northern California.

I was overwhelmed by the sameness of the work, and concerned that people were purchasing in good faith what appeared to a more trained eye to be art mass-produced. The pictures were unframed, but overpriced frames were available. Caught up in the desire to purchase these "bargain" paintings many people also bought frames, bringing the cost of their "bargain" to over $70 with the tax.

Many members of the community have reminded us in the Pomona Valley Art Association of our own responsibility to alert the public to the factory art aspect of what is advertised as "Original Art." It is our hope that the people of the Pomona Valley will look more closely at what on the surface appears to be worthwhile and will become more educated consumers of art. It is sad to note that "all that glitters is not gold" and all pretty pictures are not original art.

We should be aware that what a true artist, whether amateur or professional, puts into his work gives it that spark of individuality that makes it a permanent art treasure.

EPA draws only criticism

WASHINGTON — The captains of industry complain that the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is a bureaucratic monster wrecking their businesses and devouring their profits. But a careful examination reveals that the beleaguered agency often is merely a paper tiger.

While public fervor to protect the nation's resources has cooled, the air is becoming dirtier, the rivers more foul. Even the water we drink has been contaminated with cancer-causing substances.

Harassed EPA officials are trying to stick their fingers in the dike, but new leaks keep sprouting before they can plug the old ones. Dangerous new chemicals are threatening the public health, often because of the agency's own negligence.

For example, EPA was not even aware that FMC Corp. and other companies were dumping at least 70 tons of carbon tetrachloride into the Ohio River, which provides drinking water for almost 2 million people in the Cincinnati area. Carbon tetrachloride is a highly toxic chemical that causes cancer.

Last week, EPA warned Ohio residents to stockpile water because the deadly chemical wouldn't reach them for another two days. The next day, the agency reversed itself and apologized because the water around Cincinnati already had been contaminated by the carbon tetrachloride. EPA had mistakenly urged citizens to stockpile poisoned water.

There are some 253 other organic chemicals in the nation's drinking water, but little action has been taken against even those that probably cause cancer. "The presence of some organic compounds in drinking water may be increasing the risk of cancer," warns an internal congressional staff report.

Indeed, the agency's clean water program also is "a bureaucratic mess," one EPA insider confided to us. EPA is under court order to set limits on 65 toxic chemicals that factories dump into the nation's waterways.

"We're taking only one or two samples because we can't meet the court deadlines," said one official. "The industries will sue and the regulations will be thrown out in court."

EPA also has failed to act forcefully against poisonous gasoline vapor which escapes from gas pumps while cars are being filled. Under strong pressure from the oil companies, the agency backed off from strict standards on the deadly hydrocarbons, which threaten the health of millions of Americans who fill their cars at self-service pumps and those who work in or near gas stations.

The Environmental Defense Fund threatened to sue the agency, but agreed to wait until EPA finished a study of benzene, a suspected cancer-causer in the gasoline vapor. The study was so poorly done, however, that officials feared it would embarrass the agency if it leaked out.

The EPA official who conducted the study didn't even know that a federal health agency had labeled benzene a cancer-causer. An internal staff report, which EPA suppressed, charges that the study used data "in an inconsistent fashion" and ignored evidence that benzene is lethal.

"It wasn't a quality job," one EPA official told us.

Meanwhile, EPA has permitted 2.3 million cars and trucks to remain on the road even though they don't meet federal pollution standards. A General Accounting Office report criticized the agency for failing to inspect soot-spewing cars. EPA's assembly-line inspections of cars are shoddy and some new vehicles were later found to cause four times the air pollution allowed by law.

EPA also has virtually ignored alarming evidence on three cancer-causing pesticides commonly used on cotton and soybean crops. Exposure to the pesticides by "inhalation, ingestion and skin contact poses major carcinogenic hazards" to the general public, warns a grave memo to EPA from Dr. Samuel Epstein, a leading cancer specialist.

Footnote: Reps. Andrew Maguire, D.-N.J., and Thomas Luken, D.-Ohio, have been urging the agency to crack down on dangerous substances. "You've cited a lot of cases that have merit," an EPA spokesman conceded to our associates Larry Kraftowitz and Howie Kurtz. He said the new administrator, Douglas Costle, will be "a very tough manager" in these areas.

SUGGESTION BOX: A year ago today, we created the National Suggestion Box to solicit ideas on how to solve the country's problems. More than 25,000 suggestions have poured in from all 50 states and overseas.

We have brought these suggestions to the attention of key officials. At first, it was difficult to penetrate the bureaucratic fortress. Since President Carter took office, however, the government has been more responsive to suggestions from average people.

Inside Washington

Judicial politics as usual

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The mills at Justice may grind fine, but they are exceeding slow these days.

More than three months into the Carter administration, the department has barely begun to fill dozens of federal judicial and prosecutorial vacancies around the country.

And political considerations, which Carter vowed to remove from the selection process for judges and U.S. attorneys, continue to intrude — emanating, in some instances, from the White House itself.

For years, members of the U.S. Senate have virtually dictated the choice of district court judges and federal prosecutors within their states in a power grab that goes well beyond their constitutional power to confirm presidential nominations.

"To have them doing the naming and the president reduced to advising and consenting is a reversal of the whole constitutional process. It would be nice to get it back where it belongs," said one top Justice Department official.

So far, however, it's business as usual in the selection of U.S. attorneys. Only four have been named by Carter to date. All were commended to the President by Democratic senators. And all have political credentials at least as compelling as their legal qualifications.

In Arizona, Carter chose Phoenix attorney Michael D. Hawkins, chief counsel of the state's Democratic party and campaign director for newly elected Sen. Dennis DeConcini. In western Tennessee, the U.S. attorney's job went to Memphis City Councilman W.J. Michael Cody, who was Carter's Shelby County campaign director in both the primary and general elections last year.

Nominated as the new U.S. attorney for Maine was George J. Mitchell, deputy director of Sen. Edmund Muskie's 1972 presidential campaign and unsuccessful Democratic nominee for governor in 1974. And in South Carolina, the post went to Columbia municipal judge and prosecutor Thomas E. Lydon Jr., who has been active in the campaigns of both Carter and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings.

Despite Carter's campaign promise that judicial and prosecutorial selections would be made strictly on the basis of merit, potential U.S. attorney candidates must receive political clearance from Hamilton Jordan at the White House. There is, however, no similar political check on federal judges.

The Justice Department and the White House are slowly setting up 11-member "merit" commissions in each federal judicial circuit to choose nominees for Court of Appeals vacancies. The first eight commissions (of 13) have now been appointed, although it will be another two months before they begin recommending judicial candidates to Carter.

Our sources report the White House initially sought to stack the membership of these "merit" commissions entirely with "early Carter supporters," backing off only after top Justice Department officials suggested such a move would hardly create confidence in the impartiality of the selection panels.

Bowing to senatorial grumblings, the administration will not attempt to set up merit commissions to nominate federal district court judges — although it is encouraging senators to do so voluntarily. Lawmakers have accepted the invitation in only eight of the 50 states, and only two new district judges (of more than 20 vacancies) have been nominated by Carter so far. Both are from Florida, where the two senators have a merit commission to screen nominees.

The two judges and four U.S. attorneys are the only nominations sent to Capitol Hill thus far. "Usually we'd have 50 to 60 by this time, especially at the start of a new administration," a Senate Judiciary Committee source told us.

Solving the postal woes

Let's put the arms talks with Moscow on the back burner for a minute and do a little diplomatic negotiation with the Postal Service. And let's get the common folks in on it.

A frivolous suggestion? Don't be silly. They're more worried about not getting their mail than they are of getting a bomb in their backyard.

(Buttonhole the next three people you meet and ask them what the SALT talks are all about. Then ask them if they're happy with the post office's performance. You'll get the idea.)

I'm not using the word "negotiation" lightly, either. A lot of us, realizing the Postal Dept. is never going to make it under the present system, would be willing to sacrifice a delivery here and there if it would pull the carriers out of the red.

Apparently $920 million in federal subsidies won't do it. They already get that from Congress. Plus another $700 million a year from the government for free and cut-rate service as Congress' delivery boy.

Everybody knows you can't bring back the Pony Express, although on a cost-efficiency basis it still beats the performance of Postmaster Gen. Benjamin Franklin Bailar.. (Named after the country's first Postmaster General maybe??) So one must make do.

As a negotiator-without-portfolio, I just happen to have a few ideas. And since Congress is revving up for one of its "hearings" next month, now's a good time to get in my two-cents' worth (since I can't use it to get a postcard from here to anywhere).

For openers, let's cut out all political mail. Especially from congressmen who, since they don't have to pay for it, abuse it to an extent you wouldn't believe.

In the year ending last June, for instance, they swamped their constituents with 401 million pieces of mail. Designed, of course, to extoll their golden virtues as representatives of the pee-pul.

Then in the months before the election they showered us with another 160 million letters. In case we didn't get the message the first time. For this dubious blessing you and I shelled out $72 million.

Which, by absolutely no coincidence, leads to another sacrifice we'd all be willing to make: junk mail. Abolish that instantly. Outlaw it and send all offenders to jail forthwith. The benefits to "occupant," to letter carriers and to trashmen would be enormous.

Now about that five-day delivery they're threatening us with. I, for one, would sit still for that if it would help bail out Bailar. Saturday is no day to cope with bills, anyway. Sort of takes away that day-off feeling.

So does the chirpy little note from the dentist reminding me that time is here again, which invariably arrives on a Saturday. Skipping weekend deliveries, the post office says, would save $412 million.

If this is what it takes to ward off the 16-cent stamp (or the 28-cent stamp, as some postal officials are threatening), so be it. Besides, postage rates are already up 27 per cent, and the system is still $1.2 billion in the hole.

President Carter, whose grandpappy was a rural postman for 33 years, says the Postal Service is "a classical illustration of wasteful, imprudent and inefficient management, with its 187 top executives living high in luxurious quarters on up to $58,000 salaries."

Maybe we can't go back to the one-window simplicity of the old days in Richland, Ga., but there must be some way to help it break even. As of now, that happens only when United Parcel Service goes on strike.

So let's cut out magazine deliveries, too. Most everybody passes a newsstand at least once a week; it shouldn't take much extra effort to pick up Time, Good Housekeeping, Playboy, whatever.

Publishers are already screaming that their postal rates are preposterous. Think what they'd save if they cut out subscriptions. Maybe even enough to lower prices. For that I'd be willing to give the gentlemen at Pickwick Stationery all my business.

It would also lighten the load if you'd stop sending President Carter suggestions on how to run the country. The White House mailman has to carry in 75,000 letters every week.

Congress wants to drag the Postal Service into the electronic age with instant wire transmission of letters. But that means more computers, and you know how they are.

Combine congressmen and computers and we'll never get the mail through.

Ann Landers

No sex before or after

Dear Ann Landers: I wish I had sought your advice years ago. You could have saved me a lot of agony. May I give your readers the benefit of my experience?

I married a girl who didn't want sex before marriage. I thought I had a jewel until we went on our honeymoon. Then I learned that she didn't want sex AFTER marriage, either.

I did love her dearly and decided to be patient and wait for her to grow up and be a wife, but she never did. When I couldn't stand it any long (I was then 50) I left. She said she wanted me back and agreed to joint counseling if I would come home. Our counselor was a woman who said my wife's undressing in the closet was NOT abnormal and I must be a Peeping Tom to want to see a woman unclothed. I was dumbfounded. The counselor suggested I not approach my wife sexually for a month.

Three sessions later did it. The counselor said to my wife, "Wasn't it wonderful not to be bothered with sex for a whole month?" I decided at that moment to get a divorce.

The following year I met and married a wonderful widow who helped me forget the nightmare I had been living for too long. We plan to spend whatever time we have left doing whatever makes us happy. My "bride" is an adorable and loving lady and I feel so fortunate to have found her.

Maybe your readers will see themselves in my letter and not waste 25 years, like I did. — It's Great To Be Alive

Dear Alive: That counselor was a real lemon, but I must say you're a pretty slow study. I'm happy your life has taken such a joyous turn! Congratulations.

Dear Ann: My parents were divorced when I was ten. I'll be 16 soon and have not seen my father for four years, although he has visiting rights. I think about him a lot.

Just before Christmas I asked my teacher if I should write him a letter telling him about my interests. She said, "Yes, but don't let your mother know."

I wrote a long letter and sent a small picture of myself. I haven't received an answer. Should I write again and ask if my letter got lost in the Christmas rush? — Hopeful

Dear H.: Your teacher gave you bad advice. If you know where your dad is, he knows where YOU are. Let him be.

It's not hard to build fantasies around a daddy who isn't there. Don't let your imagination trick you into thinking he is something he is not, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: Your usual sharp eye must be getting dimmed by age. You missed a humdinger recently. I was disappointed.

I refer to the letter from the woman who was miffed because her son-in-law was still calling her "Hey, you" after four years. She said, "Wouldn't you think the lunkhead would know better?"

Why didn't you nail her in your typical Landers style and tell her that "Hey, you" is plenty good enough for a mother-in-law who calls him a lunkhead? — Canton Carl

Dear Cant: I got the impression that the mother-in-law called him a lunkhead after four years of "Hey, you." In my opinion "Lunkhead" is plenty good enough for a son-in-law like that.

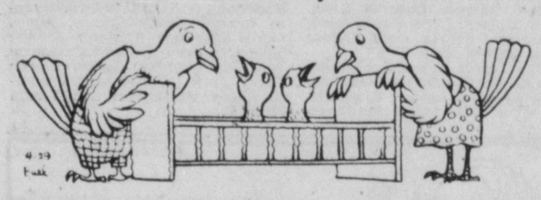
Dr. Miller

Can't breed and race, too



DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm just getting into pigeon racing this year and would like to know if it's possible to breed my birds and race them too. — O.R.

DEAR O.R.: While April and May are probably the best months to breed your pigeons, you'd better not plan on racing them, too. This can be done if breeding pairs raise a limited number of youngsters earlier in the year. Since pigeon parents put everything they have into raising the young it's illogical to expect them to accomplish this and still be in shape to win races a few weeks later. It is possible, though, for pigeons bred in early April to put it all together and be racing contenders in July.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Can two females or two males be happy in the same cage? — E.V.

DEAR E.V.: Sometimes. Depends on the species among other factors, including the size of the cage. Frequently females would be more compatible caged than males, though not always. Some two-of-a-sex couples wouldn't be happy in a zoo-sized enclosure . . .

DEAR DR. MILLER: In two months of hard dieting, I've only managed to get off a half pound from Lou, my beagle. She's very lazy, and I think that's part of it. About all she does when I won't feed her is crawl up in my lap and go to sleep. Her doctor said nothing was wrong with her but weight, and to get it off. Well, I've been trying, and waiting, and it isn't doing much good. I think if I could only get her to exercise, it would help. But how, when she's a natural-born lap dog? — G.F.

DEAR G.F.: Even that slight weight loss indicates her diet could do it with just a little help in the exercise department. Encourage it in almost any form except jumping into your lap. If an enclosed yard's available, teaching her to fetch a ball is one of the easiest ways for you to help her exercise. If you can manage it, a jogging at the end of a leash should have Lou looking leaner in a comparatively short time. Exercise in some form should be included in any doggie diet. For that matter, exercise is essential to keep any canine in condition both physically and psychologically.

Television's new trash collector

"I'll never say never again again," as the song goes, so I am not betting the family jewels on it, but the odds are long against me ever investing $1,300 in Sony's Betamax video-tape record-and-playback system which would enable me to capture such fleeting television masterpieces as Hollywood Squares or an I Love Lucy re-run.

Betamax, for those of you who have had your heads buried in the sand for the past year, is a device you fasten to your TV set to record a video-tape of your favorite show whether you are watching it or some other popular program or out at the ball park or night club. You plug it in and set the timer, and your little cartridge will record one hour of whatever program you want to preserve. You can come home at any hour of the night (depending on your wife) and settle down to enjoy Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman or the 3,158th installment of As the World Squirms.

Needless to say this copy-and-store-it machine does not sit well with the television industry which wants to recycle its goodies for years to come. Who would want to watch a Mike Douglas Show when he had it on his own cartridge? (Who would want to watch Mike Douglas?) Universal City Studios have joined Walt Disney Productions in a multi-million dollar law suit against Sony, charging violation of the U.S. copyright laws, much like pirating recordings of popular rock groups. Personally I would rather watch a re-run of I Dream of Jeannie than listen to Elton John or Led Zeppelin, but the question of royalties concerns a lot of people and a lot of money, the "Roots" of all evil.

So if everyone in America has shelves stacked with reels of Star Trek, Guiding Light, Maude and Let's Make a Deal, the networks are going to have trouble syndicating these gems for re-runs. "Betamax may be the beginning of an important new industry," gloats Harvey Schein, president of Sony Corp. of America. "I don't think society can countenance the retrogressive step of preventing this from happening." I don't think society can countenance many statements like that.

Since year to year television fare is 99 and 44/100ths per cent pure bilge, with no harmful additives or artificial coloring, it is hard to believe that millions of people would want to save up various specials, spectaculars and episodes. It's like making a tape recording of Howard Cosell. In the past, if what Mommy has told me is true, the debonaire seducer would attempt to lure some toothsome chick to his apartment with "Come up and see my etchings." Today's Lotharios are going to have it tougher asking the dollybird up to watch some re-runs of Days of Our Lives, Leave It to Beaver, The Price is Right or Mary Tyler, Mary Tyler. If you've got romance on your mind, Kojak and Gomer Pyle just don't make it.

The Universal-Disney lawsuit has all the prospects of Canute battling the tides. Sony hopes to have a million Betamaxes in U.S. homes in a few more years, and Zenith and RCA are marketing their own plug-it-in-and-save-it devices as well. By the time the case gets to court — and as the judicial process works, that should be early in 1990 — there will be more tapes of Maude, Johnny Carson, Little Rascals, Bob Newhart and Match Game in American homes than in the vaults of newtork studios. An' dat's de name a' DAT tune!

If Universal and Disney win their case, it will be like a law banning the common cold.

Water halted use of laxatives

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am past 96. For many years I had to resort to laxatives and enemas for elimination.

I have a sympathetic feeling for anyone who has that handicap. Several years ago a friend encouraged me to try drinking water before breakfast. After trying it for a couple of weeks I was back to normal. I have not taken any sort of laxative since.

Would you pass this information on to your readers? It might help many others as it has helped me.

DEAR READER — Your thoughtful advice is being passed on. Many people need to train the bowel. Part of that training program is to eat a reasonable breakfast that would consist of at least two glasses of liquid.

The breakfast and liquid stimulate a natural reflex and when you learn to use this response you can avoid the useless and often harmful laxatives that are so communly used.

A good thing to eat at breakfast with this program is one of the cereal products that contains bran.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. You may not need it but you may be able to share the information with friends and help them too. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Just write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you please tell me something about kidney infections. Last year my doctor diagnosed my illness as acute pylitis. He said it was a kidney infection. The doctor gave me antibiotics and I was cured. Is it possible for a kidney infection to reoccur?

Lately my urine is cloudy, particularly at night before I go to bed and in the morning it seems fine again. I've also had a dull pain in my back, but the pain is not severe at all. Should I go to the doctor and find out if I do have a kidney infection again or is it nothing to worry about? I'm 16 years old.

DEAR READER — The only way a urinary tract infection can be diagnosed is by examining a specimen of urine. Yes, you should go see your doctor.

Pylitis means infection of the funnel shaped collecting area of the kidney where the urine collects to pass through the long tube (ureter) to the bladder. Obstruction of the ureter allows urine to collect in the funnel shaped area and an infection may follow. Pressure on the ureter tube may occur during pregnancy or from a number of anatomical factors. If you happen to have a minor change in your anatomy you may be susceptible to infections of the kidney and may need periodic treatment.

Cloudy urine alone does not mean an infection. You may have orthostatic albuminuria. What is that? Albumin is one of your naturally occurring blood proteins and we all lose a small amount in the urine each day. Increased loss is called albuminuria (albumin in the urine). In some otherwise healthy people when they are standing upright (orthostatic position) there is an increased leakage of albumin into the urine so the condition is called orthostatic albuminuria.

That would fit with your observation that your urine is cloudy at night before you go to bed but is clear in the morning after you have been lying down all night.

A mild dull pain may be associated with a dropped kidney or an infection. An infection may also increase the leakage of albumin. Phosphatey and other chemicals can also make your urine cloudy.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Saturday, April 30, 1977

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even though you're set upon having things done your way today, don't overreact if others fail to fit your mold exactly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If it's party time for you today, don't use it as the forum for bringing up a serious topic. You could spoil everyone's fun.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is not the day for you to seek favors from influential contacts. Avoid an almost certain rebuff.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have authority over others, wield it wisely today. Should you act tyrannically, you'll feel bad about it later.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Assume no financial commitments on behalf of someone else today. It could turn into a costly mess for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make do with what you have, rather than borrow. What you get today is likely to make you feel unduly obligated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have problems with others today, be honest about who caused them. It's possible you could be more to blame.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Work and responsibilities may be swept under the rug today because you're more pleasure-bent than duty-conscious. They won't go away.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) To further yourself, you may be tempted to gamble on something today you know little about our customary caution would serve you better.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your mate may rekindle an old grievance today. It's best to wait until you're both calm to work it out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do your part to keep the household budget in line today. If your mate wants something you can't afford, try to talk him out of it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Companions you usually get along well with could be miffed today if they feel you are taking them for granted. Watch yourself!

(Are you a Taurus? Bernice Osol has written a special Astro-Graph Letter for you. For your copy send 50 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to ask for Taurus Volume 7.)

Your Birthday, April 30, 1977

Advancement is likely this coming year, but added responsibilities come with it. Be sure you take time to smell the roses along the way.

How miners tested cold

Not many of the early gold prospectors up in Alaska had thermometers. But most of them carried mercury which they used in refining gold dust. And they usually had rye whiskey, kerosene and a patent medicine called Davis Pain Killer. They put all of these outdoors in four tin cans. The mercury froze at minus 36.4 degrees F. Whiskey, minus 55 degrees F. Kerosene, minus 63 degrees F. Pain killer, minus 70 degrees F. Claim was they could work comfortably with frozen mercury, willingly even with frozen whiskey, hesitatingly with frozen kerosene. But when that pain killer stiffened up, it was time to get back into the cabin.

ENERGY SAVER

"To conserve our nation's precious water supply and the energy needed to heat it," writes an Idaho subscriber, "I recommend that President Jimmy Carter ask Congress to make it mandatory, subject to penalties, for a husband and wife to bathe in a tub at the same time, thus to ensure that their combined body displacement would fill that tub with less water. Besides, they could scrub each other's backs."

That women tend to look at mirrors more frequently than men do is common knowledge. Less widely known is the fact that women are far less inclined than men to like what they see therein. Or such be the claim of researchers at Duke University and the University of Wisconsin. The girls are just a lot more critical than are men of their own appearances, evidently.

PORTLAND CEMENT

Argument continues over how Portland cement came to be so called. A Florida man insisted it originated in Portland, Ohio, a town later to be renamed Sandusky. But a Seattle client says not so, it was called Portland by Joseph Aspin of Leeds, England, in 1824, when it was first patented, because it resembled a natural limestone quarried at Portland, England. Portland cement was not made in this country until 1871. But Portland, Ohio, had changed its name to Sandusky way back in 1818.

First year of a dog's life is equal to the first 15 years of a man's life. Second year of a dog's, figure 24 years of a man's. Each subsequent dog year then amounts to four man years. So a 16-year-old dog is relatively the age of an 80-year-old man. Or so says A. Lebeau of the French Academy of Veterinary Medicine.

The unlucky expert had a new hand for us. He showed us the West cards, gave us the bidding and asked: "What would you lead?"

We studied the hand and replied, "We would lead the same deuce of diamonds you led. Did South make a singleton ten?"

"No," was the reply. "My partner won the trick and gave me a club ruff. Later on he made a trump trick to set declarer two. This hand took place in an IMP match and believe it or not, cost us the match."

Before you go any further see if you can figure out what happened at the other table. We'll give you a hint. We didn't figure it out.

What happened at the other table was that South responded one spade and West passed. North jumped to three clubs, South made a very bad bid of three notrump and West elected to double.

South was delighted. So delighted that he redoubled. West cashed his six diamond tricks to score 1,000 points, a net gain of 800 and 13 IMPs which gave his side the match.

Claremont groups display concern on Base Line Road

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Frustration encountered in trying to get the state to do something about the traffic safety problem on Base Line Road was shared by members of the Claremont City Council, the Claremont Board of Education and the Sumner PFA this week at a joint meeting.

Board president Mary Ellen Kilsby recalled that six years ago at a similar joint meeting Base Line Road was discussed as a traffic safety problem.

Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith explained that the city feels that urgency is needed in getting Caltrans to make the necessary improvements along the six-mile length of Base Line Road, which is also State Highway 30, and recommended it in a staff report released several weeks ago.

"But what does this report mean?" inquired Supt. R. S. Kirkendall. "Does this mean that something is going to happen or is it pacifying?"

Velma McKelvey, president of the Sumner PFA, told about the efforts of her group since last fall in trying to entice the state to improve Base Line Road for the safety of 184 children who must use the street to get to Sumner School.

Julie Lannom, chairman of the PFA traffic safety committee, complained that the critical approach speed on Base Line Road at Towne Avenue is 47 miles an hour. The posted speed limit is 35 mph.

"Trucks carrying debris from the groves to the east are going too fast on this road," she said. "About 99 per cent of the parents take their children to school rather than risk the youngsters' lives on the two-lane street.

"Traffic is controlling us. We are not controlling it," Mrs. Lannom said.

Mrs. Valerie Hinds who lives on Williams Avenue said that 18 children living on that street are carpooled to school.

"We don't have any authority to do anything," Mrs. Kilsby said. "Individual letters from citizens are necessary to Caltrans."

Residents were encouraged to keep writing letters.

Mayor Smith said that the city has completed its traffic study of the vehicle count at Towne Avenue and Base Line Road, and that the warrants justify putting up a four-way stop sign.

Nancy Arce, teacher and also chairman of the Claremont Traffic Safety Commission, cautioned that the installation of stop signs doesn't guarantee the safety of pedestrians.

PTA convention slated in Anaheim

Delegates to the Nation PTA's 81st annual convention in Anaheim will examine many of the issues that shape the family life at the four-day meeting which has as its theme, "Today's Family In Focus." Slated for May 15-18, the convention will be held at the Disneyland Hotel. Some 2,000 delegates from the U.S. and Europe are expected to attend.

"In today's society, an increasing number of issues directly or indirectly affect the stability of family life. Even the concept of what constitutes a 'family' is changing," says Carol Kimmel, national PTA president. "Through our feature presentations and action clinics — forums for discussion and problem solving — we hope to help our members better understand and deal with these concerns she said.

Awaiting Supreme Court review

Paddling can't begin yet

The U.S. Supreme Court ruling does not mean that California teachers can begin paddling school children freely today, said Joseph M. Brooks, executive secretary of the California School Boards Association.

Schools should follow the law in California as it currently exists until further definition of the U.S. Supreme Court ruling is available, he added.

California law requires prior written permission from a parent or guardian before a teacher or principal can spank a child. The law, Assembly bill 1267, by Assemblywoman Leona Egeland, D-San Jose, was passed in 1975.

"Schools should continue the practice under the Egeland law for the present," Brooks said. The U.S. Supreme Court opinion is not in print. "Until it is and can be studied by the California Attorney General and county counsels, we will not know what its effect on California will be. The question is, if the California law were tested, would the U.S. Supreme Court rule the same on it." Until the new ruling can be examined, the State Attorney General's office says it cannot give an opinion.

Under California law, schools must notify parents that their written permission is required for the school to administer corporal punishment. Silence does not give consent. Failure to respond to the notice puts the child on the "no spank" list. Written permission to spank must be on file at the school and is good for one year.

Chairman 'meow' and his rebel commuters

LONDON (AP) — Herman, a cat, and his rebel commuters arrived a little late for work but convinced that their new charter bus is the way to beat rising rail fares.

Herman, sometimes known as "Chairman Meow," is figurehead president of an organization called The Society for the Preservation of Old London Buildings. It has nothing to do with preserving old buildings.

The society's aim is to get commuters living in Brighton on the English Channel to and from their jobs in London for less than the minimum $3.19 a day charged by the British railway system. London is 50 miles north of Brighton.

Herman, the society's secretary, a parrot named Horace, and its treasurer, a goldfish named Jaws, have their jobs to confuse officials of the stateowned British Rail.

Square dancers name officers

The Foot 'n' Fiddle Square Dance Club of La Verne, the oldest such club in the valley, will mark its 28th anniversary May 7 with a dance at Palomares Community Center, Pomona.

The events will start at 7:30 p.m. with Norm Pewsey teaching the round of the month. Mr. Pewsey also will cue the rounds during the regular dance.

Square dancing will start at 8 p.m. with Kenny McNabb, the club's regular caller at the microphone. It will continue until 11 p.m.

The Foot 'n' Fiddle club was formed in La Verne as part of the recreation program in 1949. Throughout most of its existence it danced at the former American Legion Hall, Bonita and Wheeler avenues. The building is now owned by the city of La Verne. The club dances there on the first Saturday of each month.

Though he was not the club's first caller, Cliff Roe arrived soon after it was formed and remained until he retired in the late 1960s. Mr. McNabb and Tom Dunagan succeeded him. When the club went from two to one night a month, Mr. McNabb remained with the club.

No charter members remain with the club. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hathaway and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jones are the "oldest" active members.

Club officers are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Walsh, president and first lady; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hart, vice president and treasurer, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keehan, secretary.

Joyce Brothers

At ease with family

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I have to be on the road and away from my family for long periods of time. When I come home, it takes a long time before we're comfortable with each other. Quite honestly, I'm not sure that we ever are. It's hard for me to talk to them. I grew up in a family that was withdrawn and silent, and I suppose I still am. My wife is much more outgoing. One of my main problems is that in the morning, when we make a point of being together, I'm more reticent than usual. We have no conversations. — J.J.

Dear J.J.: Try talking about dreams. That's a good opener because it leaps over the usual inhibitions and dodges we so often use to disguise our true feelings. It also reduces the chances of hostility. After all, very few people would be apt to be angry or hurt by something a person dreamed. The universality of dreams can also help to remind your children that you're human, that you have fears and anxieties just as they do.

Dr. Edward Vogelsong, professor of human development at Penn State University, says one reason families frequently have so much difficulty communicating is that most people never learn how to express their thoughts and feelings effectively.

Whenever you say something that puts a label on the other person, whenever you make an accusatory statement, or put the other person down, that's bad communication. It arouses defensiveness in the other person and he either fights or withdraws.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My mother died when my sister and I were very young and did we have difficulty adjusting. So far, I'm now doing all right. My sister, however, has become a hypochondriac. She goes from one doctor to another. She's full of complaints though, actually, she's in good physical health. She also has so many fears I lose track. Each day, it seems, a new one crops up. She wants to move in with me. I am sorry for her but I'd hate to have her share my apartment. What can I do? — C.O.

Dear C.O.: Your sister should have psychiatric treatment and no matter how much you love her, you're not able to provide her with this care. Above all, don't weaken about the apartment. This wouldn't help her and it would be very harmful to your growth and development at this point.

Most hypochondriacs suffer from underlying depression. They use constant visits to doctors and their preoccupation with illness to protect them from becoming even more depressed. Their symptoms become both their defense and their means of communicating.

Help your sister by being friendly, warm and caring, by letting her know that you support her and are sympathetic. At the same time, be forceful in encouraging her to seek help from a professional who can fully understand her problem. Don't allow yourself to feel guilty when you refuse your apartment. Remember, your action is helping her. You're not being selfish or cruel.

Thinks boss a great guy

Anti-job winner gets 'hissed'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Women Office Workers held a contest to pick the most ridiculous personal chore performed for a boss. The only trouble was the winner didn't know she also was supposed to consider the duty demeaning.

"Gee they're going to hate me," said Mary Gustitus, 30, of Little Falls, N.J., "But I have to tell them what I think.

"I love my job and my boss is a great guy. I didn't realize these people were complaining. I didn't know all these people were anti-job," said the executive assistant, who says she gladly does everything from setting up birthday parties to tweezing gray hairs out of her boss' head at his East Orange, N.J., office.

Her entry was bringing her camera to work and taking before, during and after photos of her boss shaving his moustache.

Miss Gustitus said she entered the contest as a lark and with the help of her boss. "He helped me pick stuff out so I could enter. We sat around one day and thought of stuff that was crazy."

Other entries included cleaning the boss' false teeth and coating the boss' plants with mayonnaise.

Miss Gustitus was announced the winner at WOW headquarters Wednesday night. It marked the concluding event of Women Office Workers Day.

She told those assembled at the headquarters that she didn't really agree with them and said, "If you go to work feeling like a servant you'll be one." A few of the women hissed back.

When she finished her speech, however, WOW officers thanked her for showing up and "speaking your mind."

"We didn't think people enjoyed doing demeaning personal errands," Mary Jones, WOW treasurer, said later. "We didn't specify that the people had to hate the task but we assumed they would."

"They're saying that their duties are demeaning. I'm there for eight hours and I get paid for eight hours," Miss Gustitus said. "I think this group is on the same level as NOW. (National Organization for Women) I feel I get equal pay; I'm not disrespected in any way. I love my job.

"I'm a M-I-S-S not a M-S," she said, spelling out the letters. "I find that most women who use Ms. have been divorced."

Miss Gustitus said her boss "lets me come and go as I please. When he sends me out on an errand he gives me money for gas and tolls and sometimes even tells me to keep the change. And I get to do my own shopping too. It's great getting out of the office. I love it.

"I've been there for 3½ years and my salary has tripled," she said, worrying out loud if the group might sue for her anti-WOW comments.

ROLLING STONE
Record Reviews

By DAVE MARSH

BAD COMPANY: "Burnin' Sky" (Swan Song SS 8500).

Their best album so far, mostly because they've finally found a way to occasionally temper their blues-rock with lighter passages — as in "Mornin' Sun" and the hard-edged, Eagles-like "Peace of Mind," for example. Paul Rodgers' songwriting has also grown, although his comments about women are still disgustingly juvenile, and the arrangements rival Led Zeppelin's for hard-rock complexity.

* * *

ROGER MCGUINN: "Thunderbyrd" (Columbia PC 34656).

McGuinn has found a backup group that recaptures much of the spirit of the Byrds. The harmony singing is delightful, and guitarist Rick Vito's playing is reminiscent of McGuinn's own work on the great early Byrds records. As usual with McGuinn, the songs are also well-chosen: Tom Petty's "American Girl" is a classic in the "Chestnut Mare" mold, Peter Frampton's "All Night Long" a sheer raver. George Jones's "Why Baby Why" does for a country song what the Byrds never did — makes it rock, hard. Jacques Levy's lyrics sometimes make the album's original songs tedious, but one of them, "It's Gone," ranks with the best songs McGuinn has written.

* * *

EDDIE & THE HOT RODS: "Teenage Depression" (Island ILPS — 9457).

The Hot Rods skirt the edges of punk — they include "96 Tears" here, for instance — without going overboard into musical incompetence. Indeed, if this album is reminiscent of anything, it might be the first Who album, which also put together a strange, basic collection of originals with oddball R&B standards. The medley of "Gloria"/"I Can't Get No Satisfaction" honors rather than insults the Hot Rods' sources — probably the reason they're so much superior to everything else (Graham Parker excepted) to emerge from British hard rock recently.

* * *

WILLIAM BELL: "Coming Back For More" (Mercury SRM — 1 — 1146).

"Tryin' to Love Two," included here, has made a nice, unexpected comeback for Bell, who as a fine soul crooner in the Sixties was overshadowed by Stax label-mates Otis Redding and Eddie Floyd. Bell has simply adapted his style to slightly updated arrangements, and the result is the kind of smoothly flowing music he's always made. This album also includes a new recording of Bell's greatest songwriting job, the country and blues classic, "You Don't Miss Your Water."

* * *

EUGENE RECORD: "The Eugene Record" (Warner Bros. BS 3018).

Record was the lead singer for the Chi-Lites, the most classically oriented of all Seventies soul groups. Here, he recaptures some of the group's deft, delicate sound in almost every tract. But there's nothing as magnetically attractive as the great harmonies of "Have You Seen Her" or the subtle dissonance of the harmonica in "Oh Girl" (the best Chi-Lites hits) to rivet one's attention. Lack of propulsive hooks makes "The Eugene Record" more like mood music than sweet soul was ever intended to be.

* * *

ACE: "No Strings" (Anchor ANCL 2020).

Ace appeared from nowhere — more-or-less — with a 1975 light white-soul hit, "How Long," and despite releasing a couple of LPs since then, faded from public scrunity just as fast. On the basis of this album of pedestrian guitar funk, it's no more (and no less) than they deserve.

SO LONG, MARY — Louise Lasser, star of TV's Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman, announces to newsmen this week that the series will end in June. Looking on is the producer, Norman Lear, who said they want to "put it away with love" while the series is still very popular.

UCLA to offer Weill opera

The first Los Angeles presentation of the full-length version of the Kirt Weill-Bertold Brecht opera, "The Rise and Fall of the City of Mahagonny," will be held in UCLA's Schoenberg Hall next Friday, Saturday and Sunday and May 13, 14 and 15.

Staged by the UCLA Opera Theater and the University Symphony Orchestra, the opera will be offered at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, and at 2 p.m. on Sundays.

Brecht and Weill, creators of "The Threepenny Opera," constructed a fantastic, freewheeling city where anything goes as long as you can pay for it, because, in their words, "this entire Mahagonny exists only, because everything is so evil, because no peace reigns and no harmony, and because there is nothing upon which one can rely." Mahagonny's only capital crime is poverty.

Hitler and the Nazi party labeled the opera "a rubbishy work with inferior and immoral content," caused riots at the opera's Leipzig premiere in 1930, and subsequently tried to prevent further performances in Cassel and Oldenburg.

In spite of the Nazi protests, "Mahagonny" opened in Berlin in 1931 and became a popular success throughout the decaying German Republic. The Reich established itself within a year of the Berlin opening and forced Brecht and Weill into exile. Seven years later the Gestapo raided Weill's Vienna offices, destroyed the score and orchestral parts of "Mahagonny," and the opera seemed lost forever when Weill died in 1950.

It is only through the efforts of Weill's indomitable widow, Lotte Lenya, that an early orchestral score was discovered and "Mahagonny" was reconstructed.

The UCLA production, utilizing a new English translation by Michael Feingold, will have the UCLA Opera Theater and University Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Samuel Krachmalnick, with stage direction by John Hall, sets by Archie Sharp and costumes by Gail Bixby.

Tickets for "Mahagonny" are available at $5 and $3 for students at UCLA central ticket office, 650 Westwood Plaza, and all Mutual and Liberty agencies. Master Charge or BankAmericard purchases may be arranged by calling (213) 825-7278.

'Dry Hustle'

Woman director contracts to do movie on own book

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Maybe you don't realize it, but before Barbara Kopple and Harlan County, U.S.A., a woman had won an Oscar for directing.

Her name is Sarah Kernochan, and it was in '73 that she and Howard Smith shared the Oscar for co-directing "Marjoe." She thought, at the time, that it would lead to other things. It didn't.

When she and Smith broke up, it was he who got the offers. She didn't. But she doesn't accuse Hollywood of male chauvinism. She thinks it wasn't her sex, but her extreme youth, that made them wary of offering her films to direct.

Now, though, something's coming her way. She's written a book, "Dry Hustle," and she sold the property to First Artists only three weeks after she signed the book contract. One clause of the contract has it that she will also direct the film.

The book grew out of a magazine assignment. She was asked to write an article about why, in this era of massage parlors, dance halls still flourished.

So she went to work in a dance hall, and came up with a story which was "so gamy" the magazine never published it. That made her interested in the gimmick called The Dry Hustle — gals who tease but don't deliver. The book is the result.

The script she's written for the film differs from the book. She turned it into more of a "Sting"-type movie, more of a heist film, with two leading parts for women.

Because of that, and because good parts for women are always scarce, she says she keeps getting inquiries from top actresses about the parts.

Miss Kernochan, despite her interest in the dry hustle, is actually a proper Sarah Lawrence graduate, the daughter of a Columbia University law professor.

"My parents," she says, "think I've done worse things than this. I used to work for the Village Voice in New York, and I did the first series on see-through clothing. I wore a see-through dress to the Playboy Club. And nobody even tried to pick me up."

Jean-Luc Ponty is a jazz-rock violinist, and there aren't many of those around. But he does very well, so well, in fact, that he's outgrown his native France and recently moved to California with his wife and two daughters.

His only problem, as a recording artist, is that it's tough to get a hit single record, because all his things are instrumentals. His albums, like his current release, "Imaginary Voyage," sell well, but the singles don't. That limits him somewhat.

He started out as a classical violinist. His father, a music teacher, also taught him the clarinet, figuring (rightly, it turned out) that when he got drafted into the French Army, being a clarinetist might put him in the band rather than the infantry.

One night, he wet to hear a jazz band perform. It was his first exposure to real jazz. He was so excited he wanted to join in, but he only had his violin with him. He sat in with the band anyhow, and that started his jazz career.

Today, he plays what he calls a "fusion" of classical, jazz and rock. Everything he plays is written down, note for note. He even writes down every note his band plays, with a few places for them to improvise.

The switch to jazz was tough for him, because he gave up a promising classical career. And, for a while, he made very little money in jazz. All his friends from the Paris Conservatory were doing well, and he was working for $10 a night.

That's all changed now. Today, Jean-Luc Ponty is a major force in the new music.

HANG GLIDER — Dancer Jorge Donn, playing Icarus in Maurice Bejart's ballet, "Notre Faust," swoops down amid the other dancers in the ballet's New York debut. In Greek mythology Icarus escaped imprisonment by donning wax wings but flew too close to the sun and was plunged into the sea when the wax melted. "Notre Faust" is based on the Faust legend.

CRUFON

CBers use radios to track the UFOs

By INK DIPPER

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ink Dipper, kyz-3916, is the editor of The CB Times-Journal.)

Do little green men in flying saucers listen to our CB conversations? No one will probably ever know. But this much is certain — a small band of CBers are using their two-way radios to follow unidentified flying objects.

The Citizens Radio UFO Network (CRUFON), an offshoot of the private International UFO Registry, is a loosely formed group of UFO enthusiasts who use their CBs to track the paths of the elusive flying saucers.

D. William Hauck, North American director of IUFOR, says that CBs have become an important instrument in UFO hunting, especially in rural areas.

"CBs have proven very useful in several instances. One case was in Pennsylvania. A UFO sighting was made about 4 a.m. and seen as a nocturnal (night) light.

"Two truckers sighted it, and the UFO was followed all the way into New York state. By the time it reached the state line the UFO had become a daylight disk, which is one of the only occurrences I can think of where a UFO has been seen in nocturnal light and followed through to daylight," Hauck says.

Considering that most people buy CBs to keep up with highway patrol radar units, the fledgling CRUFON is a unique use for the radios.

People who operate on a CRUFON alert, passing along information on the whereabouts of a UFO, don't use their radios too differently, though, than the trucker keeping an eye out for radar. When a UFO is spotted, the CBer puts out a call, telling what's in sight and how it's moving.

Other CBers can then look for it and verify the sighting. There is no specialized code, though some items have been added to the standard 10-code. A 10-DD, for instance, is a sighting of a daylight disk.

Once the sighting has been made and, hopefully, verified, CRUFON members use a toll-free telephone number to report their information to IUFOR. The information is fed into a computer, which already has data on about 80,000 UFO sightings from all over the world.

The organization also has computer analysis of photographs to determine if they are real or fake.

Sighting information and photographs will be used in future studies of UFOs.

Hauck hopes that CRUFON will grow as more CBers become aware of it. Membership is free and members are under no obligation. They receive an identification card and information about CRUFON techniques. A directory of members is planned so people will know who in their range shares a common interest in CBing and hunting UFOs.

For more information write to CRUFON, P.O. Box 1004, Hammond, Ind. 46325.

Lillian Gish still makes movies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sixty-five years after her film debut, Lillian Gish is still appearing in films.

The silent screen star has been signed for a role in "A Wedding," produced and directed by Robert Altman for 20th Century-Fox. She joins a cast that includes the daughter of another silent star, Geraldine Chaplin, as well as Viveca Lindfors, Nina Van Pallandt, Peggy Ann Garner, John Considine.

Miss Gish made her first screen appearance in "An Unseen Enemy," directed by D. W. Griffith in 1912.

Colleges offer Carl Orff opera

The Concert Choir of Scripps, Pitzer, Claremont Men's and Harvey Mudd colleges and the Scripps College Dance Theater will present Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana" in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 8 p.m. next Friday and Saturday and at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Seating is by reservation only. Tickets are $1.

The dance theater numbers 27 men and women. Director of the group, Linda Levy, explains that "the dancers and singers together create an all-encompassing mood of excitement which remains constant throughout the work."

"We're very excited about the upcoming concert," said Harold Daugherty, director of the choir. "It is very rare that the piece is danced, although it lends itself to the combination because of the rhythmic nature of the music. Orff, a contemporary German composer, synthesized melodic sources ranging from medieval plainchants to Bavarian folksongs.

The Girls' Choir of Claremont High School (Donald Brinegar, conductor) and accompanists Paul Bishop and Julie Simon will join the evening's performers.

Mozart's "Vesperae solennes de confessor," will be presented by the Concert Choir earlier in the evening. Student soloists from Claremont Graduate School, Claremont Men's, Harvey Mudd, Pitzer and Scripps Colleges will be featured in the performance.

Chico, Man to continue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Chico and the Man" will be continuing despite the suicide last January of costar Freddie Prinze.

Producer James Komack announced that NBC has renewed the comedy series for the 1977-78 season. Jack Albertson will continue as the crusty garage owner; no replacement has been planned for Prinze.

Komack also received a renewal for his ABC series, "Welcome Back, Kotter."

Israeli dance troupe scheduled in L.A.

The Georgian Dancers of Israel, on its premiere American tour, will perform in the Scottish Rite Auditorium, Los Angeles, at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday and at 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

The company of 40 members was founded by Ilia Namtalashvili, former premier dancer and choreographer of the National Company of Georgia, USSR.

The magnificently costumed company will present the repertory of the leaping Georgian dances, including the Sadarbazo, Georgian national folk dance; the Dzigitov, a Caucasian horse-riders dance; the Asitinian Folk Dance, the Old Tiflis Dance; the national sport-games dance, the Parikaoba, and others.

Piano recital slated

The teachers section of the Musicians' Club of Pomona Valley will present a piano recital in Pattison Hall, Scripps College, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. Admission is free.

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

As I look back on this week, one event stands out in my mind more than any other. The long-awaited opening of The Pomona Valley Mining Co. last Tuesday night was attended by numerous dignitaries, city officials and assorted newspaper hacks, and, I'm sure, all went away with a warm feeling towards the people responsible for this newest Pomona restaurant.

The Restaurant Adventures, Inc., people did the job right. I've attended several disappointing openings and have seen inadequately trained help trying to cope with too many people. This wasn't the case Tuesday night. The service was good and the food delicious. The menu is essentially steak-seafoods, the atmosphere carrying out the mining theme with rough-hewn timbered walls and authentic relics of the mining era adorning dining room and lounge, and the panoramic view of the Valley is outstanding.

Go up there this weekend if you get the chance. Pomona Valley Mining Co. is open for dinner from 5:00 pm daily and offers lounge entertainment from 8:30 to 1:30 Tuesday through Saturday. Dinner prices range from $5.45 to $8.95. Take San Bernardino Freeway to Dudley, short left on Gillette to right turn up the hill.

Another openign was held Tuesday night, this one the Grand Opening of Alpine Haus Bavarian Restaurant in Pomona.

The former St. Charles Grill is alive and well again with sounds of music and warm conversations replacing the past few years' silence of decay. Owners Josef and Mary Benz are to be congratulated on rehabilitating this glorious bit of Pomona past and bringing a rather unique restaurant featuring German Old Wolrd specialties to downtown Pomona. Alpine Haus open for lunch and dinner, is located at 158 W. Holt, and provides another lunch option for us downtowners.

Returning from a relaxing vacation does have its disadvantages. For one, I again found myself swept up in events I had tried valiantly to push from my consciousness during my hiatus. And, as if suffering from jet lag, culture shock or some other form of time disorientation, I returned to find plans afoot for a Mother's Day I had all but forgotten. Don't you forget. If you're planning to take her out this year, make your reservations now.

I'll mention one thing about my little knock-around vacation. I took in the opening concert in the Spring jazz series at the old Pilgrimage Theatre in North Hollywood. Willie Bo Bo opened this series of free Sunday afternoon concerts. I mention it because if you're looking for good music in a beautiful outdoor setting for free, this is it. Starts at 2:00 p.m.

NEWS 'N NOTES

. . . The Sage Hen, that venerable old restaurant near the corner of Foothill Blvd. and Central Ave., is open again under the guidance of owner Bob Newger.

. . . That assemblage of friendly kooks who go by the name of "Cartune" return to the Valley next Monday, opening for a month-long stay at Claremont's Beef 'n' Barrel.

. . . Pomona's Yodeling Custodian, Otis Roy, was a recent winner of $100 during the talent night contest at Palomino Club. Otis has done this before, and has several things going for him in his on-the-rise career.

. . . Look for Rowdy's to openthe first part of May. The building, formerly Mr. Dee's, is located

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has looked into products designed to give you a suntan without any sun and says it has no reason to question claims that they brown the skin.

The Food and Drug Administration said tests conducted for the agency by a consulting firm show that consumers are not likely to suffer injury from the products if they follow directions on the label.

The FDA said it had received some complaints about a spotty or mottled appearance when the color starts to wear off. It said this may result from uneven application of the product.

If you don't want to wait for the "tan" to disappear naturally, the FDA says experiments indicate three or four scrubbings with soap and water will eliminate most of the color.

The browning effect, incidentally, comes from the chemical dihydroxyacetone, according to the FDA. Exactly how the chemical reacts with the skin is still unknown.

TRANSIT HELP — The Department of Transportation is launching a series of experimental programs on public transit and wants to hear from communities which would like to take part.

The federal goverment will foot the bill for 50 to 80 per cent of the costs of the experiments which include such things as abolishing fares completely or during off-peak hours, reducing fares, eliminating fares in central city areas and developing incentives to cut fares.

Mayors and other local officials who are interested should write, by May 31, to Director UMD-20, Office of Service and Methods Demonstrations, U.S. Department of Transportation, Urban Mass Transportation Administration, Washington, D.C., 20590.

The letters should indicate what type of program is preferred, what local funds are available and what the local transit system is like.

DOUGLASS BOOK AVAILABLE — The life of Frederick Douglass, a former slave who became an internationally known orator and abolitionist, is recounted in a new National Park Service book.

The book, "Frederick Douglass: The Clarion Voice," written by John W. Blassingame, editor of the Douglass papers at Yale University, includes photographs and documents on Douglass' life.

It costs $1.70 and is available from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. Ask for GPO Stock No. 024-005-00656-7.

TODAY'S TIP — Before buying a used car drive it through a car wash to check for leaks around the windows. Look under the floor and trunk mats and under the spare tire for moisture which may indicate rusted-through floorboards.

Poor nursing home care

State accuses doctors

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state is recommending revocation of the licenses of 20 doctors for shoddy care in nursing homes, state Health and Welfare Secretary Mario Obledo said this week.

Other doctors and 16 nursing homes could lose their licences, and criminal charges are being considered against three doctors, Obledo said.

It was the first such mass action against doctors and nursing homes in the state's history, Obledo said.

Del Callaway, president of the California Association of Health Facilities, which represents 800 long-term care facilities, accused Obledo of seeking publicity.

"If they have the evidence, they should take action and prosecute in courts of law. They should not be tried in the press," Callaway said.

A spokesman for the California Medical Association had no immediate comment.

Obledo's charges followed repeated comments by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. that investigations of nursing homes would disclose conditions that rival other recent findings of improper care in mental hospitals.

The recommendations against doctors' licenses will be submitted to the state Board of Medical Quality Assurance and the possible criminal complaints will be given to district attorneys, Obledo said.

He released a list of "dismaying specifics" uncovered in an inspection of 40 state-licensed nursing homes by a state "strike team." They included:

—A nursing home bought a $400 color television set with the personal funds of a blind patient.

—A legally blind physician cut himself while performing minor surgery on a patient.

—A patient choked to death on solid food although his medical charge stated he was restricted to pureed food.

—A doctor ordered a nursing home not to notify him if any of his patients died between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

The "strike team" found patients abandoned by their doctors, patients left for hours in beds soaked with their excrement, a nurse who failed to provide any medication for 50 patients, and a doctor who instructed a nursing home employe to mail him his patients' records once a month so he could bring them up to date without seeing them or even checking by phone.

Sizzling Dodgers home tonight

Playoffs set for La Verne College

Best news in ages is that the NAIA District Baseball Playoffs will be held at La Verne College this year.

Leo and Claremont-Mudd fans won't have to travel. No one will have to worry about sprinklers coming on and causing games to be suspended or having games switched to other sites at the last minute because a CIF game has precedence.

The move to La Verne was proposed by Whittier's Hugh Mendez, district baseball chairman.

"Stadiums are getting harder and harder to get," observed the Leos' Ben Hines. "One thing the committee thought of was that most of the crowd has been La Verne followers. So this might even increase attendance."

C-M people have turned out for the Stags, too and the problem is likely to be lack of space rather than too much.

HERE 'N THERE - It's a big night in sports tonight with the Dodgers returning home from an incredibly successful road trip and the Lakers back from Oakland with their backs against the wall.

The hitting has been so sensational that even though the starting pitching hasn't been quite as strong as anticipated the club has kept on winning.

Angels floundering

Meanwhile the Angels have never recovered from falling flat on their collective faces in the Freeway Series.

The bullpen is as bad as it ever was. In the press box, instead of calling Halo relievers "firemen," they are referred to as "firebugs."

Holdover weaknesses from other embarrassing years also include centerfield and catching. Bruce Bochte has given it his best shot and has proven that he has neither the instinct, the arm or the ability to play there

Terry Humphrey is a journeyman catcher Andy Etchebarren should have retired or been retired years ago

Making things even worse is the fact that the starting pitching, thought to be one of the club's strongest points, has faltered.

In the field, the Angels make far too many errors both of commission and omission. And they make them at critical times. This is the trademark of a bad team and the Angels have been just that so far.

Worst part of it all is that if the Halos continue to play poorly, Norm Sherry most certainly will be given the axe.

Part of the blame may be attributed to Sherry. But it is not his fault that for the second year in a row, the Halos went to spring training without a centerfielder or catcher bearing major league credentials nor anyone in the bullpen who has done the job consistently.

Dick Drago's earned run average the last three years has been 3.48, 3.82 and 4.44 escalating every year. His lifetime ERA is 3.58. Drago, called "Boom Boom" for good reason in the press box, should have been gone long ago.

So should Mike Cuellar who never should have made the club. The 39-year-old Cuellar gave up 25 hits in 23 innings in spring training with a 4.70 ERA. He was 4-13 with a 4.96 ERA last year at Baltimore. It's obvious he's through.

It's the writer's considered opinion that neither Drago, Cuellar nor Etchebarren would have been with the club when the season started if Sherry had had his way.

It's Dalton's fault

Harry Dalton is the man responsible. This is the same Harry Dalton who has conned Gene Autry into believing he has developed baseball's greatest farm system.

The truth is only three of the nine daily regulars and one of the five starting pitchers has been produced by Dalton's vaunted farm system.

Bochte, lifetime average .270 with 40 RBIs per season, Dave Chalk, lifetime average .248 and 31 runs batted in, and Jerry Remy, lifetime average .261, are joined by pitcher Frank Tanana as the ONLY starters on the club's 25-man roster that have been developed by the Angels' farm system.

All four of the these players were signed by scouts that Dalton let go or replaced with people he brought in from Baltimore!

Claremont's Dick Wiencek, now with the Detroit Tigers, signed Tanana, Remy and Bochte and had a hand in scouting and assessing Chalk's potential and Chalk was signed by Rex Carr, also departed.

As for the Lakers, well, they have definitely missed guard Lucius Allen. Who would have thought that Allen, Bo Lamar and Cazzie Russell all would be hurt in the first three playoff games?

The Lakers haven't won a game in Oakland in four years anyway, but unless they play far better than they did Sunday and Tuesday, they won't win tonight either

MURDERERS ROW

All eight of the Dodgers' daily starters are on the All-Star ballot. Left to right are Ron Cey (3B), Bill Russell (SS), Davey Lopes (2B), Steve Garvey (1B), Dusty Baker (OF), Rick Monday (OF), Steve Yeager (C) and Reggie Smith (OF). They'll face Expos tonight.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers' hot streak appeared to be nearing an end when the San Diego Padres raced to a 4-0 lead after two innings, but appearances can be deceiving.

When the game was over Thursday night, the Dodgers prepared to head home with their fourth victory of the four-game series on a come-from-behind 7-5 victory.

It was the sixth consecutive triumph for the Dodgers and their 13th in their last 14 outings.

"We did two things championship teams have to do," summed up Dodger first baseman Steve Garvey. "We won on the road and we came from behind to win. Champions always come back."

The Dodgers tagged losing pitcher Dave Frisleben with a six-run rally in the third inning, striking fast on a two-run single by Reggie Smith, a two-run double by Garvey and a two-run homer by Rick Monday.

Garvey added an insurance run in the fifth with his sixth home run of the year, enabling Los Angeles to complete the sweep of the series.

"We've been averaging seven runs a game this year," said Garvey, "so when you're down four you've got to feel you still have three runs to play with."

The Padres, who lost their fifth straight, took the early lead on a three-run homer by George Hendrick in the first inning and an RBI triple by Merv Rettenmund in the second.

An RBI double by pinch-hitter Gary Sutherland produced San Diego's other run in the eighth, but it was hardly enough to keep the Dodgers from completing their most successful road trip in 20 years, taking 11 of 12.

DODGER DATA — Pitching matchups for the series are as follows: Tommy John vs. Don Stanhouse tonight at 7:30 p.m., Rick Rhoden vs. Gerald Hannahs Saturday (7 p.m.), and Don Sutton vs. Steve Rogers Sunday at 1 p.m.

Tonight is Ball Night with all youngsters 14 and younger receiving a free Dodger baseball. Saturday night is the second "Teen Night" of the season. All teenagers can purchase a $3.00 reserved level ticket for only $1.00

Sunday is Autograph Day with players at various locations around the stadium from 11:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. to sign autographs.

Lakers feel the pressure tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers return home with the pressure on them to maintain their mastery of the Forum court and break the deadlock in their National Basketball Association quarterfinal playoff series against the Golden State Warriors.

Tonight's game starts at 8:30 p.m. PDT with a national television audience looking in and the best-of-seven series tied at two apiece.

"For us," commented the Warriors' Phil Smith, "It's still an uphill climb. They still have the home court advantage and the series is even."

Jamaal Wilkes of Golden State, the former UCLA All-American, declared, "We have to try to prevent Kareem Abdul-Jabbar from getting the ball where he wants it. When he does get it inside, he's unstoppable. "So we have to push 'em out high and try to take away that pass to him."

The Lakers won the first two games at the Forum, 115-106 and 95-86, but then lost at Oakland in two straght, 109-105 and 114-103.

In the latter, the Warriors controlled the game throughout with superior speed.

Now the Lakers hope for the return of Lucius Allen, who was injured in the first playoff game and saw brief action in the third. The Lakers say only rest can take away the soreness from the toe he dislocated in the first game.

Coach Jerry West of the Lakers made no excuses for his club's losses in Oakland, saying:

"They simply played excellent basketball. They were very agressive and shot well while we were simply careless."

West vowed his club wouldn't give away goals at the Forum and added, "I can assure you of one thing; we will be much better at home."

Because they finished the regular season with the best won-lost record of any team in the NBA, the Lakers get the home floor advantage in any playoff series. After the fifth game of the series is played in the Forum, the teams return to Oakland for the sixth. A seventh, if needed, will be back in the Forum.

If Allen can't play, the big job of replacing him falls again to rookie Earl Tatum. He and Bo Lamar had alternated but Lamar still suffers from a thigh bruise suffered in the third game.

Forward Cazzie Russell, the man who must guard Rick Barry, also has a bruised thigh but doubtlessly will be on the starting line. He didn't miss a start during the regular season. Neither did Abdul-Jabbar or the other forward, Don Ford.

Barry has been the big gun for the Warriors with two games of 40 points. And, as his club evened the series, the 33-year-old tallied 26.

Wilkes believes the pressure must be on the Lakers, saying, "We've given them something to think about. If they don't win tonight, it's looking bad for them because we've had such good success with them in Oakland.

"But if we lose, I wouldn't want to write it off. It's a three-game series now, and we have to win two."

The Lakers haven't won in Oakland in their last 16 games there, covering four years.

TOUGH TALKER

Atlanta Braves' owner Ted Turner talks with newsmen as he arrives for court proceedings against Bowie Kuhn.

Ted Turner, Braves' owner, offers lawyer 'knuckle sandwich'

ATLANTA (AP) — The president of baseball's American League backed Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, but Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner offered to give a Kuhn attorney "a knuckle sandwich" during first-day testimony in a federal hearing on Turner's suspension from baseball.

Kuhn suspended Turner from operating his team for one year, saying Turner had violated a directive against club owners talking about free agent players' salaries before the free-agent draft last November.

Turner filed suit in U.S. District Court, trying to overturn that ruling.

American League President Lee MacPhail testified Thursday that Kuhn's action was supported by a clause in the Major League Agreement authorizing the commissioner to penalize team owners or employes whose actions he considers "not in the best interests of the national game of baseball."

"That's a broad provision to give the commissioner authority to take whatever action he thinks best," MacPhail said.

He said he thought the penalties of the one-year suspension and the taking of a Braves' selection in this year's amateur draft were "severe, but I don't think under the circumstances ... they were too harsh."

Kuhn's action concerned a remark Turner made at the World Series in October to San Francisco Giants' owner Bob Lurie to the effect that Turner would outbid Lurie for Giant outfielder Gary Matthews, who was about to become a free agent.

Turner testified Thursday, as he has said many times before, that he made the remark in jest.

At one point during cross-examination by Kuhn attorney Richard J. Wertheimer, the brash millionaire declared, "After this is over, you keep that up, and you'll get a knuckle sandwich."

He later said he meant the remark facetiously.

A main issue in the case, which will be decided by Judge Newell Edenfield, is whether Kuhn could, by directive, extend to the free-agent draft the same "tampering" rules that prohibit team owners from negotiating with players under contract to another team without the other team's consent.

Odd situation for both 76ers, Celts

By Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers are in the odd position of having to explain why they're leading the Boston Celtics in their National Basketball Association quarterfinals series, with a chance to put it away tonight.

And the Celtics are in the equally odd situation of explaining why the 76ers won't.

But if the 76ers are on the defensive, they can only hope it carries over to the basketball court.

"We're not the worst defensive team — far from it," said Julius Erving in reply to suggestions that the 76ers' weakness is on Boston's end of the court. "What we did was get back on defense quickly and prepare ourselves."

The good doctor was explaining how the 76ers held the Celtics to under 100 points in their 110-91 drubbing of the Celtics in Philadelphia Wednesday night. That victory gave the 76ers a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven quarterfinal series which continues tonight in Boston.

In two other quarterfinal matchups tonight, Washington is at Houston and Golden State plays in Los Angeles. Both of those series are tied 2-2. Portland takes a 3-1 lead into Denver 3-1 on Sunday, when all four series resume if they haven't been already decided.

A 76ers' victory would end Boston's title defense and a chance for an unprecedented 14th NBA title.

"If there was one real difference in the way we played Sunday losing to Boston 124-119 and Wednesday night, it is in the way we were mentally prepared," said 76ers guard Doug Collins.

"We've controlled the tempo in four of the first five games, and the only reason we didn't win the first game was because we couldn't sustain it," added Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue.

Davila takes close decision

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alberto Davila, 118½, of Pomona won a unanimous decision over Carlos Alcivar, 119, of Ecuador in the 10-round Olympic Auditorium main event Thursday night.

It was a close and fast-paced fight. Referee Dick Young had the boxers two points apart at 96-94; judge James Jen Kin had them one point apart, 96-95, but judge Eddie Fierro had Davila the winner by six points at 98-92.

Under the scoring system in California, the winner of a round gets 10 points and the loser receives a lower score.

Davila, the world's third-rated bantamweight fighter, formerly was in the stable of the late Howie Steindler. He is managed now by Benny Georgino.

There were no knockdowns in the battle, but the fast flurries and quickly thrown punches had the crowd on edge throughout the action.

Davila has a mark of 20-4, while Alcivar, who came here from Ecuador last year, is 8-8.

Defense key to USC success

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The key to our season is defensive improvement," declared John Robinson, anticipating his second season as head football coach of the University of Southern California Trojans.

As a rookie in 1976, Robinson guided his club to an 11-1 record, a No. 2 national ranking and a 14-6 triumph over Michigan in the Rose Bowl.

So what does he do as a second-season encore?

Robinson doesn't count out the national championship, although he admits it will be a mighty tough job.

"Notre Dame is in the top three, Alabama is in the top three and UCLA has great athletes," Robinson told newsmen at the conclusion of his spring training.

"We play some exceptional teams and that is detrimental to winning the national championship. But I don't know of anybody on our team who considers any of them heavy favorites over our team. We play a heavy schedule. Our problem is improving during the season."

All-American tailback Ricky Bell has graduated and so has quarterback Vince Evans, the star of the Rose Bowl game.

Robinson believes he has the replacements with Charles White and Rob Hertel.

White replaced Bell when the star was hurt in the first five minutes of the Rose Bowl game and gained 114 yards on 32 carries. Hertel saw action during the season as Evans' backup although missing this spring practice because of baseball. In fact, White didn't attend all of the spring drills since he's on the track team.

"We don't have the tremendous single force that Ricky Bell gives you," Robinson said. "We could have better balance. I think we made about 2,000 yards passing last year and 3,000 rushing. It could be more even. Hertel gives a little more balance.

"I don't think it will be to our advantage to give Charles White the ball 35 to 40 times. He can be more effective running 20 times as far as his ability to make the long run."

Defensively, the Trojans have inside linebacker Clay Matthews, the man who called the defensive signals last season. But the other three starting linebackers have graduated.

In the secondary, there are Ricky Odom and Dennis Thurman returning as starters from 1976, with lettermen Mike Carey and Carter Hartwig at the other spots. Carey appears to have recovered from a spleen removal operation last year, a result of Hodgkins Disease. The disease appears arrested, the coach said.

The offensive line is believed the heaviest overall in Trojan history with John Schuhmacher, 275, Brad Budde, 250, Gary Bethel, 235, Pat Howell, 255, and Otis Page, 265.

Defensively, the front threesome to date lists returning starter Walt Underwood, 220, Rich Dimler, 260, and Vinny Van Dyke, 252. Tyrone Sperling, 225, and Myron Lapka, 245, also will see extensive duty.

Among the incoming freshmen this fall will be quarterback Greg Brady from Tempe, Ariz., the only out-of-state player successfully recruited, and defensive backs Drungo Hazewood of Sacramento, Eric Scoggins of Inglewood, Dennis Smith of Santa Monica, and Ron Lott of Los Angeles.

"We liked Brady and would have chosen him over any other high school quarterback," Robinson said. "In that defensive back group, we probably did the best recruiting we ever have at those positions."

In other college baseball action locally Thursday, Mt. San Antonio College dropped a narrow 3-2 decision to Cerritos while Azusa Pacific blanked Claremont-Mudd 2-0.

Chaffey pounded four Citrus hurlers for 17 hits Thursday in registering the easy win. The Panthers came up with six big runs in the fourth inning to put the game out of the Owls' reach.

Panther pitcher Mike Walters did not have one of his better outings of the year, allowing nine hits and four runs while striking out four and walking three. However, the Chaffey bats gave him more than enough cushion to post his ninth win of the year.

Jim Padula led the Panther hit parade with four straight singles. Joe Bruno had a single, double and triple and three RBIs, while Bob Branchetti belted a homer and two singles and drove in two runs.

Brad Ducich and Jay Shellin led the Owl offense with two hits apiece. Citrus is now 5-15 in conference and 13-17 overall.

Cerritos came up with a run in the last of the 10th on four straight singles to beat MSAC. The Mounties are now 6-9 in the South Coast Conference and 18-13 overall.

Barry Cramer's solo home run in the second and Larry Marsh's RBI single in the sixth had given MSAC a 2-0 lead in the game, but league-leading Cerritos rallied for two runs in the last of the sixth to tie it.

A controversial call by the base umpire nullified an apparent Mountie double play in that inning, and the Falcons went on to score twice and tie the contest.

The Falcons' Greg Moyer outdueled the Mounties' John Bottoroff on the hill. Moyer fanned nine MSAC batters.

APC's Robert Murphy limited Claremont-Mudd to only three singles in besting the Stags. Murphy fanned 11 and walked three, Hal Requa picking up two of the three C-M hits.

Jim Brennecke had a solo homer for the first APC score and the second Cougar run in the sixth came as a result of a Stag error.

Claremont-Mudd is now 15-18 on the year.

(Dual meet season ends)

The Red Devils finished the league season with a 6-0 record. A meet with last-place Damien which was rained out early in the season will not be made up.

"You are No. 1," head coach Gene Abernathy told his Devils after their title-clinching victory. "We've won three straight championships. Now let's go after league and CIF."

SAL track prelims will be held Tuesday at Upland and the league finals will be held Friday night at the same site.

In Thursday's other SAL action, Claremont finished as runnerup with a 104-23 win at Damien and Upland topped Ganesha Ganesha, 80½-46½, to finish third.

In the frosh-soph divison, however, Ganesha (7-0) won the league title by downing Upland (6-1), 66-61, ending a long period of dual meet dominance by Highlander frosh-soph squads.

Pomona's Louis Cole went a league-high 46 feet, 6 inches in the triple jump and a personal best 22-8½ in the long jump to lead the Devils' victory. He lost on misses, however, in the high jump to Garey's Robert Nowden, who paced the Viking effort by also winning the high hurdles in 14.8 seconds and the lows in 39.1.

The long jump was an outstanding event at Pomona, with three athletes over 22 feet. After Cole's winning mark came teammate Albert Lewis' 22-5 and a 22-3 by Garey's Ralph Dixon, who placed second in the triple jump at 45-7.

Pomona's Anthony Miley ran a 50.4 quarter, Garey's James Moore took the 220 in 22.9 and Ed Allen of the Devils won both distance races.

Ganesha's Floyd Eddings won the 100 (9.8), 220 (22.0) and long jump (23-6¼) at Upland but was upstaged by the Giant frosh-soph team. That division went down to the high jump, which Ganesha's Duane Rodall won at 5-8. (Rodall also won the triple jump.) The Giants also ran a fine 44.3 in the frosh-soph 440 relay and Floyd Williams long jumped 21-2.

Annual Poly rodeo slated this Sunday

The Cal Poly, Pomona Rodeo and Horseshow Club will sponsor its annual intercollegiate rodeo Saturday and Sunday as part of the university's Poly Vue celebration.

Men's and women's teams from 23 colleges and universities throughout the West will compete on Poly's rodeo field, located at the southwest corner of the campus.

Performances will start at 2 p.m., with the top 10 individuals in each event performing Sunday. Buckles and trophies will be awarded to winners.

Men will compete in bull riding, bareback bronco riding, saddle bronco riding, steer wrestling and calf roping. Women will compete in barrel racing, goat tying and breakaway roping, and coed teams will compete in team roping.

The rodeo will feature Walt Garrison, former fullback for the Dallas Cowboys.

Among the competing institutions are Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Fresno State University, University of Arizona, Arizona Western and University of Nevada, Reno.

The Cal Poly, Pomona men's team is currently rated ninth in the region.

Admission prices are: $3, adults; $2.50, students; and $1.25, children.

Poly's home meet tonight

Cal Poly's track and field team will hold its only home meet of the season tonight, hosting perennial track powers Cal State Northridge and Occidental.

"This is a big meet for us," said Bronco coach Jim George. "I don't know whether we can beat Northridge or Occidental, but it'll be fun to run at home."

The meet will begin with the pole vault and long jump at 5:15 p.m. The first running event will be the steeplechase at 6 p.m.

"We had a fine day at the MSAC Relays last weekend, so we're ready to go," said George.

"We were extremely pleased to have our 440 relay team intact and running together again." David Duffy, Mike Frierson, Rick Wilmoth and Ian Smith, running together for the first time in several weeks, won their heat of the 400-meter relay at the Relays in 41.2 seconds.

"Lonnie Carr won the long jump at MSAC," said George, "and we were quite excited about that." Carr jumped 23 feet, 2 inches.

"And Marcus Gordien broke his own school record in the shot put at 56¾," continued George, "and Steve Smith took second in the triple jump at 49-5½. He was leading until the last jump."

In tonight's meet, George expects outstanding individual efforts in the 5,000 and all the field events and an exceptional race in the half mile.

"We'll have seven or eight people who have run 1:55 or better," said George, "including Glen Fox, Julian Erb and Steve Wolfe from Northridge, Tom Colley from Oxy and our own David Edds. Edds ran a 1:52.5 leg on the distance medlay at MSAC."

Another featured event at tonight's meet will be the javelin. Roger Kibbey of Northridge is the nation's top-ranked Division II javelin thrower, with a best of 237-6, and Poly's David Nugent (225-7) and Jeff Russell (225-1) are rated third and fourth.

In Saturday's only college track action, Claremont-Mudd will host Whittier in a noon dual meet.

CHECKMATES — Canadiens' Rick Chartraw (L) flys into boards and Islanders' Garry Howett Thursday night. Islanders dealt Montreal first NHL Playoff loss by 5-3 score.

Pomona swimmers do well in meet

Swimmers from the Pomona Swim School, 855 E. Kingsley Ave., made their presence felt among the 575 swimmers from 34 teams in Southern California participating in the Downey Dophins spring classic novice meet.

Gerrit and Aaron Becker, both 5, and Billy Darden, 6, led the six-and-under boys age group.

In the 25-yard butterfly, Gerrit Becker won first place with a time of 20.6 Billy Darden took the second place trophy in 21.8 and Aaron Becker took sixth place in 25.0.

In the 25-yard backstroke, Aaron won second place with a time of 23.8, Gerrit took fourth place in 25.0 and Billy Darden placed sixth with a time of 25.7.

In the 25-yard breaststroke, Gerrit placed fourth at 28.2 and Arron Becker took sixth place in 29.5.

In the 25-yard freestyle, Gerrit Becker won the first place trophy with a time of 19.3 and Billy Darden took the second place trophy in his best time of 19.6.

USC-UCLA meet close

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Too close to call," says UCLA Coach Jim Bush. "You can dope it out 1,000 times and come up with a different score each time," says Southern California Coach Vern Wolfe.

So even the rival coaches readily admit they don't know what to expect Saturday when Wolfe's undefeated Trojans face Bush's once-beaten Bruins in what almost annually ranks as the most prestigious dual track meet in the country.

The meet appears so close that fully half the 18 events could go either way.

The defending NCAA champion Trojans go into the 45th renewal of the meet at Drake Stadium with a 5-0 dual record, while the Bruins are 6-1.

Although they say it's impossible to predict the outcome, Bush and Wolfe agree that the meet could hinge on the 400-meter and mile relays.

The sprint relay could be particularly important psychologically since it opens the day's card.

The Bruins have the best time for the event, 39.55 to 39.63, but Bush said he plans to try a new combination, using James Owens, Bennie Myles, Millard Hampton and Greg Foster.

The Trojans will go with their regular 400-relay team of Rich Graybehl, Mike Simmons, Joel Andrews and Clancy Edwards.

Wolfe said his team could run 39 flat if it gets good baton passes, and Bush predicts that the winning time will be under 39 seconds, adding that he believes his four runners can do that.

USC brings a 12-meet winning string into the contest, including a victory over the Bruins last spring.

Both teams have traditionally entered this showdown with perfect records, but UCLA was upset 76-69 at Arizona State. The Trojans topped ASU 79-62.

The Bruins' Owens, who will run in the 110-meter high hurdles as well as the 400 relay, said he expects to give his team a quick lead in the relay and thus the meet.

"I feel I can beat Graybehl on the first leg and then it will be hard for them to catch us," he said.

Owens, a reserve running back on the Bruins' football team last fall, also predicted a UCLA victory in his specialty despite the presence of USC's Mike Johnson. Johnson beat Owens last year in the dual meet.

"I figure that Greg Foster and I are double trouble in that event," said Owens, who finished sixth in the 110-meter high hurdes in the Montreal Olympics. "If I don't get him (Johnson), Foster will. I think we can go 1-2...but I'm sure Mike thinks he can win."

Events rated a tossup include every flat race from 100 to 1,500 meters, the 110 high hurdles and the long jump.

There is a strong possibility that the meet will go down to the final event, the mile relay.

Dibley serve defeats Laver

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Colin Dibley complained about the court surface, but it apparently didn't slow him down as much as he thought.

Dibley, the Australian who has one of the hardest serves in tennis, used his strong service to power to a 6-4, 3-6, 6-2 win over countryman Rod Laver Thursday, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, to enter the quarterfinals of the sixth annual $250,000 Alan King Tennis Classic.

Other winners completing the second round were: Australian John Alexander upsetting fifth seeded Ken Rosewall, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, and Marty Riessen over Bill Scanlon, 7-6, 7-6.

Top seedeed Jimmy Connors is scheduled to face seventh seeded Stan Smith in a quarterfinal match on Friday. Other quarterfinal matches are Bob Hewitt of South Africa against Alexander, Mexico's Raul Ramirez against Jaime Fillol of Chile and Dibley against Riessen. Dibley, who has one of the fastest serves in the world at 140 miles per hour, complained that the slowness of the court hampered his serving. But it was his strong serving that had Laver on the defensive throughout the match.

The final set was all Dibley as he broke Laver's serve twice to jump out to a 5-1 lead.

Alexander, 25, played a waiting game, electing to stay back for long back-court rallies to try and wear down Rosewall, who at 42 is the oldest player in the tournament.

The tactic seemed to work, as Rosewall was visibly tired and Alexander was never behind in the final set.

Sunday's finals will be nationally televised on the ABC television network, with the winner being awarded $50,000.

Sports briefs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Fernando Toro escorted Rudiments to an easy win Thursday in the featured $14,000 allowance race for older fillies and mares at Hollywood Park race track.

Rudiments returned $4.00, $3.20 and $2.80 to backers after covering the 1 and one-sixteenth miles in 1:42 and four-fifths on a track labeled fast.

Ragtime Girl, guided by Octavio Vergara, finished second to pay $7.60 and $5.80, while jockey Don Pierce rode Suzy Creamcheese to third and a $4.80 show payoff.

Rudiments moved up early after the break to take the lead from Ragtime Girl, drew out in the stretch and came home much the best.

Suzy Creamcheese suffered from a bad start, but rallied at the finish.

Meanwhile, Canadian jockey Sandy Hawley finished the day with three winners, scoring in the first, sixth and seventh races.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals hurler John Denny announced Thursday that he has signed a three-year, $400,000 contract with the team.

A spokesman said the contract was largely negotiated in Florida last month but that details were not worked out until Thursday.

Denny is the National League's top pitcher so far this year with a 5-0 record. The right-hander owns 50 per cent of the Cards' victories this season.

The signing left only centerfielder Bake McBride unsigned for St. Louis.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Rutgers University's football team, 11-0 last year, will open its season this fall against Penn State in Giants Stadium, it was announced Thursday.

The game, to be played Sept. 2 or 3, will be the eighth meeting of the two. The Nittany Lions, 7-5 last year, hold a 6-1 edge since the two first met in 1918.

Rutgers will also play Penn State at State College, Pa. in 1978 and 1979 and will meet again at Giants Stadium in 1983.

Rutgers had to drop its game with Columbia scheduled for Oct. 22 to accomodate the game with Penn State. Columbia has since filled the Oct. 22 date with Colgate.

MUNICH, West Germany — Niki Pilic of Yugoslavia advanced to the semifinals defeating Hans Kary 7-5, 6-2 in the $75,000 Bavarian Grand Prix Tennis Tournament.

VIENNA — Sweden defeated the United States 9-0 and remained unbeaten in five games in the World Ice Hockey Championships.

HIALEAH, Fla. — Tracey's Winner, $9.20, defeated Whatsupbaby by a head to take the feature at Hialeah.

June Lake Loop has no water shortage

June Lake Loop in the Eastern Sierras boasts three lakes (June, Gull and Silver) which are showing very minimal effects of the state's drought.

The three lakes, all fed by underground springs, are not dependent upon surface runoff. An April 21 measurement of June Lake indicates an insignificant drop of slightly more than one foot compared to pre-drought years for this 250-foot lake.

Gull and Silver also show minimal decline of depths, with little or no change in shoreline. Grant Lake is man-made so its size varies. It still has a lot of water and plenty of fish.

June Lake is primarily noted for its rainbows and this year it has been heavily stocked prior to the opening of the trout season on Saturday. The fall planting of 1,850 brood stock, a December planting and recent plantings added to the carryover certainly makes fish abundant at June.

Silver Lake boasts great catches trolling, still fishing or shore fishing. Silver received at least 1,175 of the brood fish last fall and plenty of catchables were planted this spring.

Big Bear Lake prospects good

While the current drought is having drastic effects on many other recreational lakes throughout California, Big Bear Lake in the San Bernardino Mountains projects good fishing and boating conditions for the coming summer.

Big Bear Lake was recently purchased by the Big Bear Municipal Water District in an effort to stabilize the lake level and improve the recreational conditions by reducing water releases from the dam.

The water levels in Big Bear Lake will be less than normal this season due to the drought, but fishing will be good to excellent with plenty of access available for boat launchings.

The problems of aquatic weeds and algae have been greatly reduced this year due to the efforts of the Big Bear Municipal Water District and the Pest Abatement District. The Water District's weed harvest program will be expanded to a seven-day a week operation this year, which will further enhance the Lake. The District plans to remove over 3,000 tons of weeds from the lake this summer.

Studies by California Deprtment of Fish and Game scientists indicate healthy populations of rainbow trout, large mouth bass, blue gill, pumpkin seed and catfish. Trout collected in February averaged 13 inches in length and weighed in at about one pound each.

Edible size crayfish have also been reported in some areas.

Boating and sailing will also be very good this summer. A major Hobie Cat Sailing Regatta is slated for the weekend of June 4 and 5, officially opening the sailing season.

A boat permit is required to operate a boat in Big Bear Lake. Proof of liability insurance coverage is also required in the amount of $300,000. Evidence of proper insurance coverage will be required when applying for a permit.

For further information on Big Bear Lake, call Mr. Lawrence Buxton at 752-9082.

OMS to host speed races

Ontario Motor Speedway will be the site Saturday of the third annual International Human Powered Vehicle Association's championships.

The speed championships combine the best of athletic talent with the latest of modern technology to achieve the highest speeds man has ever reached under his own power.

This year's competition at OMS is being co-sponsored by the Shimano Corp. of Sun Valley and Bud's Bike Shop of Claremont. Approximately 40 custom vehicles are expected to enter, with each vehicle allowed three speed runs. Speeds are electronically measured.

An incredible speed of 47.8 mph was obtained last year by Dr. Allan Abbott as a single rider on a level course with no wind. The challenge this year will be to see who will be the first in history to break the 50 mph barrier.

A prize list totalling over $2,500 has been donated by the race's sponsors, but most entrants will be more interested in the chance to reach that magic 50 mph mark.

Steamlining and lightweight materials are exploited to the fullest on the vehicles but, as the name implies, energy to make the vehicles go is limited to that supplied by the drivers.

Official timed runs will betin at 7 a.m. Saturday at OMS. That time is picked in order to avoid headwinds as much as possible. Matched sprint races will begin at 10 a.m. with other racing events rounding out the afternoon.

Typical vehicles include standard bicycles with special streamlined fairings or windshields, and specially-built two or three-wheel vehicles with one or more riders. Power is normally developed with bicycle pedals, but rowing and hand-crank systems have also been attempted.

The event is organized by the International Human Powered Vehicle Association, which also records statistics and sanctions records.

Donation for admission to OMS on Saturday is $1 per person. All are invited to attend this unique competition.

Lionettes play at Anaheim

ANAHEIM — The Lionettes, Southern California's only womens professional softball team, has scheduled an exhibition game against the Bakersfield Aggies at Anaheim Stadium on Sunday, May 15 as the second game of a unique doubleheader.

The Angels will meet the New York Yankees in the first game at 1 p.m.

Between games, Lionette pitchers will pitch to Angel personnel in what is being billed as Orange County's "Challenge of the Sexes."

All fishable lakes and streams in Inyo and Mono counties have been stocked with catchable size rainbow trout during the past two weeks by the Department of Fish and Game in preparation for the opening of the general trout season in the Sierra Saturday. Local anglers win top honors

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson of Pomona took first and second prizes recently in a fish derby at Black Meadow Landing on Lake Havasu.

The Johnsons won their honors in the crappie division. Mr. Johnson netted a two-pound, one ounce crappie and received a rod and reel. Mrs. Millie Johnson netted a one-pound, 14 ounce crappie and received a Townsend fish skinner.

According to Laren Perry, marina manager at Black Meadow, this has been the best year for crappie on the lake in many years.

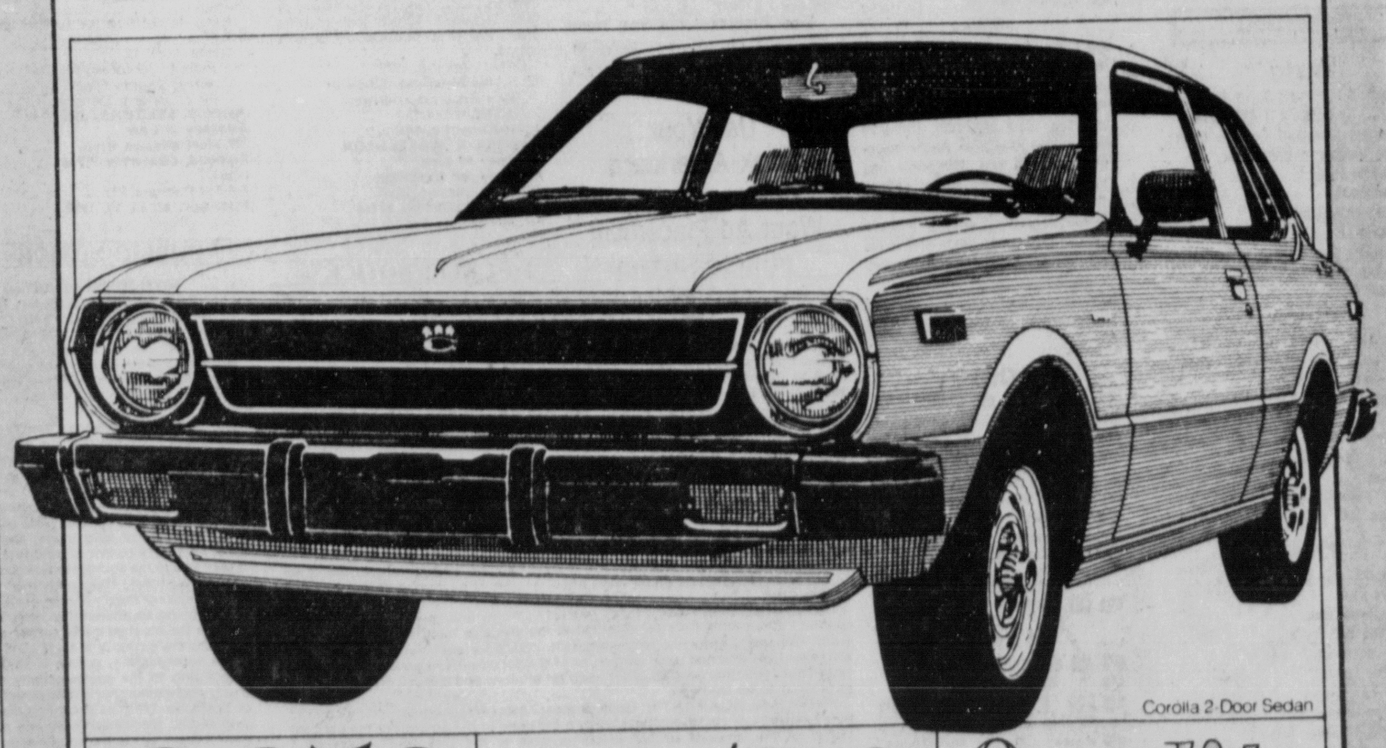
Ripley's Believe It or Not!

KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY 80 PROOF. DISTILLED AND BOTTLED BY JAMES B. BEAM DISTILLING CO., CLERMONT, BEAM, KY

IT'S PROBABLY THE MOST SENSIBLE CAR IN THE WORLD.



Corolla 2-Door Sedan

$2,858.

That's a really sensible price for a car you won't have to be squeezed into with a shoehorn. This is the manufacturer's 1977 suggested retail price. Price does not include tax, license, transportation charges, emission and optional equipment.

RELIABILITY

It's just good common sense to want a car you can depend on. Toyota builds reliable cars. That's how we made our reputation.

38/26 HIWAY CITY

It's just good common sense to want a car with superb gas mileage. These California EPA results are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment.

IT'S JUST GOOD COMMON SENSE

Quality

It's just good common sense to want a car that'll last for a while. And Toyotas last! That's why we say—if you can find a better built small car than Toyota...buy it!

VALUE

It makes sense to buy a car that'll hold its value. Owning a Toyota is like money in the bank. Because Toyotas have traditionally high resale value.

YOU ASKED FOR IT. YOU GOT IT.

Cold hands, warm heart vital step

APALACHICOLA, Fla. (AP) — A vital step in "prep" time before an operation at Weems Memorial Hospital is the weather report.

A renovation project has left the operating room without heat and with a gaping hole two feet wide and 50 feet long at the top of the room.

"We operated with cold hands and feet back in January in freezing temperatures," said Dr. Photis Nichols, hospital chief of staff.

"But we learned some lessons. Now we watch the weather reports and schedule surgery for around the cold fronts."

Nichols said said the patients have complained a little but the ones who have really suffered have been the doctors and nurses.

He said between eight and 12 operations a month are performed at the hospital.

A new $600,000 wing under construction at the hospital is three months behind schedule.

A big ship weighs thousands of tons, yet it floats easily on the surface of the ocean.

The Greek mathematician Archimedes discovered the principle that explains why a ship floats. He found that an object placed in water is held up by a force equal to the weight of the water that the object displaces, or occupies.

If you try to push a beach ball underwater, you can feel the water pushing back. This upward push on a floating object is called "buoyancy."

When a ship is in the water its big hollow hull pushes aside an equal volume of water. The weight it seems to lose is equal to the weight of the water it displaces.

The buoyancy produced by this displacement supports the ship.

Thus, even with its big engines and its passengers, the ship weighs less than the water that would take up the same space — and so it floats.

Shipbuilders design ships so that their total weight is less than that of the water they displace.

Planned at Rose Hills

Mother's Day rose show

A large number of entries and spectators are expected again this year when the 18th annual Mother's Day Rose and Rose Arrangement Show is held in the Pageant of Roses Garden at Rose Hills Memorial Park in Whittier.

Held each year on Mother's Day weekend, the dates for this year's show will be Saturday and Sunday, May 7 and 8.

In past years, the show has drawn as many as 1,500 individual entries and has been viewed by as many as 40,000 persons during its two-day run.

R.L. McNitt Jr., president of Rose Hills, urged all rose fanciers in the Southern California area to enter and attend the show.

Competition in the show is open to all amateur rose growers, or rose arrangers, and they are eligible to compete for hundreds of prizes including silver bowls, trays, trophies, ribbons and special purchase orders for rose bushes.

Prizes in special categories, the John VanBarneveld Trophy, in honor of the former Rosarian of the Pageant of Roses Garden at Rose Hills, and two awards from the All-America Rose Selections Society will also be offered. A fourth special class trophy will be offered again this year, with the presentation of the Rose Hills Memorial Trophy, in honor of three deceased Rose Hills vice presidents, Joseph Seppi, Donald Patterson and Argie Simmons.

Entries in this year's show will be accepted from 7 to 10 a.m. on Saturday and a team of rose show officials will be on hand to assist entrants to identify and place their roses in the proper classifications.

The entries will be on display for the public to view from 1 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Admission to the show is free and there is ample free parking located near the garden.

Rose Hills Rosarian Jim Kirk, the show chairman, has again lined up a team of top rose experts to serve on the judging panel and heading the judges this year as chairman will be former Rose Hills Rosarian John VanBarneveld, who now resides in Sedona, Arizona.

Since it was opened in 1959, the Pageant of Roses Garden has been expanded to more than three acres and now boasts more than 7,000 bushes and nearly 750 varieties. These include the All-American Rose Selections and old-fashioned section which has roses dating back to the time of Christ.

A new honor was recently accorded the Rose Hills garden, when it was named one of only three gardens in the United States to be designated an official American Rose Society National Miniature Rose test and display garden. A special section of the garden featuring the newest miniature roses on the market is now open for the public's inspection.

Millions of rose fanciers from throughout the United States and foreign countries have visited the garden since its dedication.

The garden is located just inside the main entrance, Gate 1, at Rose Hills, 3900 Workman Mill Road, Whittier.

MARIGOLDS, reliable annuals

Reliable summer annuals

Marigolds should need no introduction! As one of the brightest, most reliable summer annuals around, surely everyone must know them. Their pugently scented, dark, lacy green leaves covered with colorful balls of flowers are unmistakable. If by some strange chance you've never grown them, the time to plant is now.

These cheerful annuals can fill any position in the flower bed. As edgers, there are 8 inch dwarfs, a complete range of medium talls, and plenty of 48 inchers for the background.

The selection of colors and flower shape is almost as varied too. The brilliant flowers are all shades of yellow and orange, bronze, mahogany, red, and finally, after years of remarkable breeding efforts, a true white. Besides, the pure colors, there are many combinations of orange, bronze or mahogany flecked with shades of yellow, gold, or more orange. Don't think that all Marigolds are round, compact balls either. There are six petaled singles with ruffled centers, doubles, crysanthemum and carnation types. And, now a distinctly different form with long narrow, loosely ruffled petals is available. The size of these blooms ranges from one inch across to more than five!

Once you've made the difficult decision of which kinds you'd like, these beauties are among the easiest annuals to grow from seed or as young transplants. Give them a sunny spot with well-drained prepared soil. Add a little fertilizer as a mulch — then enjoy!

If you aren't sold by now on just their sheer beauty and easy culture, consider that they are very long lasting, long stemmed cut flowers. And, it is said in the organic circles that nematodes refuse to live in soils that are growing or have recently grown any Marigolds.

So if loveliness hasn't convinced you, perhaps a nematode problem will encourage you to try growing some. Once they make it into your garden, they will become favorites grown each and every season.

Bonsai garden art varied

One of the most amazing of all the varied garden arts is Bonsai. Centuries ago the Japanese collected and cultivated trees in miniature form culminating in the creation of a unique art form. Nature's forms are so exactingly reproduced in these elegant trees that it brings a windswept mountain tree right into your hands.

As with many hobbies, there are many skills involved, but take heart — it's not as complicated as it seems! With practice, wonderful results can be achieved. A Bonsai seedling has the potential to grow into a great work of art with your help, but its final form does take time to develop.

Spring is the best time to start a new Bonsai while the trees are strongest and growing fastest. When you visit the nursery to select your tree, examine the basic form of the trunk since this is what you will work from. Don't overlook the "discards" either! Specimens that are lopsided or deformed often make very good Bonsai subjects.

The easiest species to start with are Pyracantha, Cotoneaster, Dwarf Pomegranate and Juniper. Keep in mind that they will represent a tree in miniature — small leaved species are important to the beginner in maintaining the image.

In choosing a pot, the all imporant home for your new tree, the first consideration is drainage. The subtleties of Bonsai can come after a pot with at least two drainage holes is found. Death by drowning is a very real hazard for Bonsai.

The soil should be light and porous. A good soil mix can be made from the following recipe: 3 parts loam, 2 parts sand and 1 part pre-soaked peat moss. This is a good basic mix, but there are many other good variations. In time you will feel comfortable with one of them.

After your tree is potted, pay close attention to its water needs since such a small pot has only a limited supply. Daily watering is necessary during especially warm weather. Protection from direct sunlight is also advisable.

Here's the answer

Q. — I intend to buy some sandpaper soon for a project I have coming up. The last time I looked at some in the hardware department of a lumberyard, I was completely confused by the numbers on them. Some had low numbers under 6 and some had very high numbers over 500. How do I get what kind I want?

A. — More and more manufacturers are getting around to grading sandpapers by such terms as coarse, medium, fine and very fine, but some are still using numbers. The trouble is that the numbering systems are not all alike. Your best bet is to tell the dealer what you intend to use the paper for and to follow his suggestions. After you have used sandpaper a few times, you'll soon be able to tell by sight which kind you need for specific jobs.

Q. — Can you give me your opinion of "long-life" electric bulbs? They cost more than regular bulbs and I wondered whether their longer life would make the extra price worth it?

A. — The so-called long-life bulbs will last longer, it is true, but they use more electricity and therefore should not be bought for the purpose of saving money. A long-life bulb should be considered if it is to be located in a place where it is very difficult to reach when a change has to be made.

Q. — We are getting ready to put down resilient floor tiles in several rooms in our house. We have none at present and we don't want to make a mistake in colors. Can you tell us something about the selection of the right colors?

A. — Naturally, the hues and patterns should enhance and blend with the decor of the rooms in which the tiles are to be installed. Sparkling, brilliant tiles that are right for a recreation room might be completely out of place in a conservatively furnished bedroom. The subtle colors used in a living room might not give a kitchen the kind of cheerful effect you want. But there are exceptions, depending on your individual tastes in decorating. The colors considered warm are reds, pinks, oranges, corals, golds, yellows and yellow-greens. The colors considered cool are blues, blue-greens, blue-grays and violets. Remember that colors seem stronger when applied to a large surface than when seen on an individual tile. Light colors reflect more light, making things seem bigger than they are. Dark colors absorb light, making things look smaller and heavier — used extensively, they might be a little depressing, but they sometimes provide a necessary touch of harmony. Try not to select tile colors because they happen to be a current trend. The modern, quality resilient types of tiles have exceptional durability and will still be in good shape long after the color trend has changed.

Q. — I intend to install resilient floor tiles in our dining room. Will they go with the present hardwood baseboards?

A. — Yes. But, if you wish, you can purchase baseboards made of the same material as the tiles.

Q. — I inherited an old table saw with three new saw blades. What I'd like to know is how to cut grooves into wood.

A. — There are several ways to do this, one of which calls for special washers that rotate the blades to permit the cutting of grooves. But the easiest and safest method is with dado blades of varying widths. While these cost more than washers, they do a more accurate job.

Gardeners check list

—Don't be tempted to cut long stems on early Roses. Leave as much leaf area as possible to help produce a strong well developed bush.

—It's safe to set out seedlings of tomatoes, eggplant and pepper and to sow seeds of squash, beans, corn, etc. Remember to mulch!

—Don't allow Rhodendrons to set seed. Remove the seed pods after the flowers whither taking care not to injure the new growth, buds or shoots.

—Stake and tie Delphinium plants. Nothing detracts from these heavenly blue beauties as much as broken stalks and drooping flowers.

—Divide crowded clumps of Bearded Iris after bloom. Every third year or so is about right for dividing them.

—Don't tease your plants with sprinkles of water. Irrigate deeply and less frequently. It is especially crucial to make the most of what water you do have in this drought.

—Now's the time to tackle those thirsty weeds which steal water from your plants. After they're gone, a nice thick mulch will discourage new ones and conserve soil moisture.

—Move container plants out of windy areas. Keep a sharp eye on watering as the warm weather arrives.

—Remember to pinch the tips of Chrysanthemums through the summer. This will result in bushy plants with many blooms next fall.

—You can set out Tuberous Begonias in shady spots now. These colorful additions aren't as thirsty as you might think so let them get by with less water than usual.

'New' Saigon: everything, yet nothing, has changed in city

EDITOR'S NOTE — Two years ago, on April 30, 1975, Communist forces entered Saigon, and American troops and civilians as well as tens of thousands of Vietnamese fled the fallen nation. What has happened since then in the former capital of South Vietnam? In this dispatch, an AP correspondent who covered the war in Vietnam tells of the "new" Saigon he found during a recent visit there.

By PETER O'LOUGHOIN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON, Vietnam (AP) — The old U.S. Embassy stands vacant, guarded by a solitary policeman. Former President Nguyen Van Thieu's palace is a museum and a sightseeing must for the curious. Abandoned American aircraft rot at the airport.

The Continental Hotel, once a favorite gathering spot for Americans, is now the Simultaneous Uprising Hotel.

Two years after the Communist victory on April 30, and the flight of Americans, everything — yet nothing — has changed in Saigon.

The new unified government has renamed it Ho Chi Minh City but it still remains what it was during the war — tawdry, dirty, quieter, perhaps, but still a place with something to sell — for a price.

A carton of American cigarettes costs the equivalent of $120 if Vietnamese dong are bought at the official rate of 50 cents each. The same carton costs $24 if dong are bought on the black market, where they can be had for 10 cents each.

Tan Son Nhut Airport was the first change noted by a correspondent who returned to Vietnam after two years with a group of Australian and other foreign tourists. The correspondent had identified himself as an Associated Press correspondent to the Vietnamese authorities in applying to join the group.

The airport once was the busiest in Asia, with U.S. jet fighters, helicopters and transports loading, landing and taking off in what seemed intervals of only seconds.

Now the parking bays are filled with dozens of U.S. helicopters, C7 Caribous, C130 transports and spotter planes, many of them wrecked by Communist rockets during the final days of the war. There are no guards, pilots, airmen or people of any kind in sight.

But workmen are busily finishing the international terminal, started with U.S. aid money several years ago and now almost complete, down to Swiss digital clocks, German pay telephones and French television screens to announce the arrivals and departures if and when Saigon opens up again to world travel.

At the Continental Palace terrace, known as the Continental Shelf to the Americans and other foreigners who drank there, only coffee and ice cream are now served.

Green castiron shutters fence off the terrace, and the grand dining room and garden courtyard are a restaurant and bar for Vietnamese soldiers and Communist party group leaders billeted at the hotel.

Up To Do street, the chic stores display Pierre Cardin ties, Coty perfume, Du Pont lighters and Rayban sunglasses. But stocks are getting low and there are blank spaces in the windows.

Girls in ao dais, the long filmy tunics with side slits worn over pantaloons, still put on white gloves so their hands won't get dirty when they ride their motor scooters. But more of them are switching to bicycles because gasoline now costs the equivalent of a dollar a gallon.

Brodard's, a favorite watering hole on Tu Do, is still patronized by young men in blue sunglasses, button-down shirts and well-tailored denims. But there is no beer. Deliveries from the former French brewery, now run by the government, are intermittent.

All the French restaurants are closed. The last of the Corsican propietors left several months ago.

Along the Saigon River, where two years ago people were dying in their scramble to escape before the Communists took over, all is quiet, even serene. Business at the dried squid and sugarcane juice stalls is brisk. Young couples stroll hand in hand along the sidewalk.

The famous My Canh floating restaurant is under government ownership, serving the same menu of succulent baked crab (6 dong), chicken and bamboo shoots (5 dong), rice (2 dong) and beer (2.25 dong a bottle).

Groups of farmers, peasants and schoolchildren and foreign visitors are given guided tours of the gray-colonnaded Independence Palace, Thieu's former headquarters across the street from the U.S. Embassy.

"This is where Thieu used to meet important people, like U.S. Ambassador (Graham) Martin," said the guide ushering us into the Thieu's private office. "This is where Martin and his advisers sat in specially made chairs. This is Thieu's desk. Note that it is raised up on a platform so he could be higher than anyone else."

Visitors are told that Thieu slept with six feet of sandbags on his bedroom roof.

The Ho Chi Minh City Tourism Company also organizes tours to the former U.S. military warden's compound at Le Qui Don and Vo Tanh streets. Now it is the U.S. and Puppet Government War Crimes Museum.

The tour company also presents a cultural night at the Rex night club in the building that once housed American officers and the Joint United States Public Affairs Office.

Guests are ushered into the 300-seat former night club once known for its hard rock, strip shows and Vietnamese singers.

A young woman in a red ao dai wishes everyone "an ecstatic welcome from Ho Chi Minh City Tourism." The 15 or so guests are served hot tea while young women launch into a medley of revolutionary songs, and the orchestra plays Bach and Mozart.

Then, with strobe lights flashing and the red spots on, out comes Kathy Hue, a well-known Vietnamese night club singer who belts out an up tempo version of "Grenada."

The performers shake hands with the guests on the way out and break into a chorus of "Auld Lang Syne."

On the surface, life in Saigon seems relaxed.

Three-man squads of soldiers carrying AK47 rifles are seen occasionally. But few buildings are guarded, and most soldiers in the streets are unarmed, apparently on leave. Saigonese say the soldiers are polite and don't cause trouble.

Foreign tourists are allowed to roam the city at will, but Saigonese are cautious when talking to them. They look over their shoulder at the door if they are alone with a foreigner.

The Communists are coming to grips with the economic system in the South and things could get tougher.

"We estimate it will take us three years to eliminate the free market in the south," said a North Vietnamese party worker.

Cholon, the Chinese quarter of the city, still is clogged with traffic, street vendors and merchants selling everything from pots and pans to the new national flag.

Reliable sources say the Cholon Chinese still control the rice trade and can, for payment in gold or diamonds, arrange French or British papers that will get a seat on the regular flights taking French and British citizens to Hong Kong or Bangkok, Thailand.

In a bar on Tu Do street, a girl speaking American-accented English complained about the new government and the effect it was having on her bargirl business.

"They'll never send me to the new lands to build monkey house out of bamboo," she said referring to the unsettled or abandoned New Economic Zones in the countryside to which many South Vietnamese are having to move. "No way, honey. I'm gonna get out of here."

BUSINESS AS USUAL — Two years after Saigon was taken by the North Vietnamese army, the open air street markets such as this one continue to flourish, selling everything from A to Z.

Agreement allows Cuban fishermen to work inside U.S. 200-mile zone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Cuba have set preliminary maritime boundaries between the two nations and reached an agreement that will allow Cuban fishermen to take surplus catches within 200 miles of the American shoreline.

Terms were reached in two rounds of talks in New York and Havana and a joint announcement was issued Thursday by the State Department.

Details of agreements between the two countries, both of which have adopted 200-mile fishing limits, were not immediately disclosed.

The boundary agreement was needed because Cuba is only 90 miles off the U.S. coast. The fisheries agreement brings Cuba in line with several other nations, including the Soviet Union, which regularly fish near the U.S. coast and have applied for permission to catch specified numbers of fish within the zone.

Among the obstacles to establishing ties with Cuba are Cuba's support for insurgent movements in Africa and human rights violations at home, according to U.S. officials.

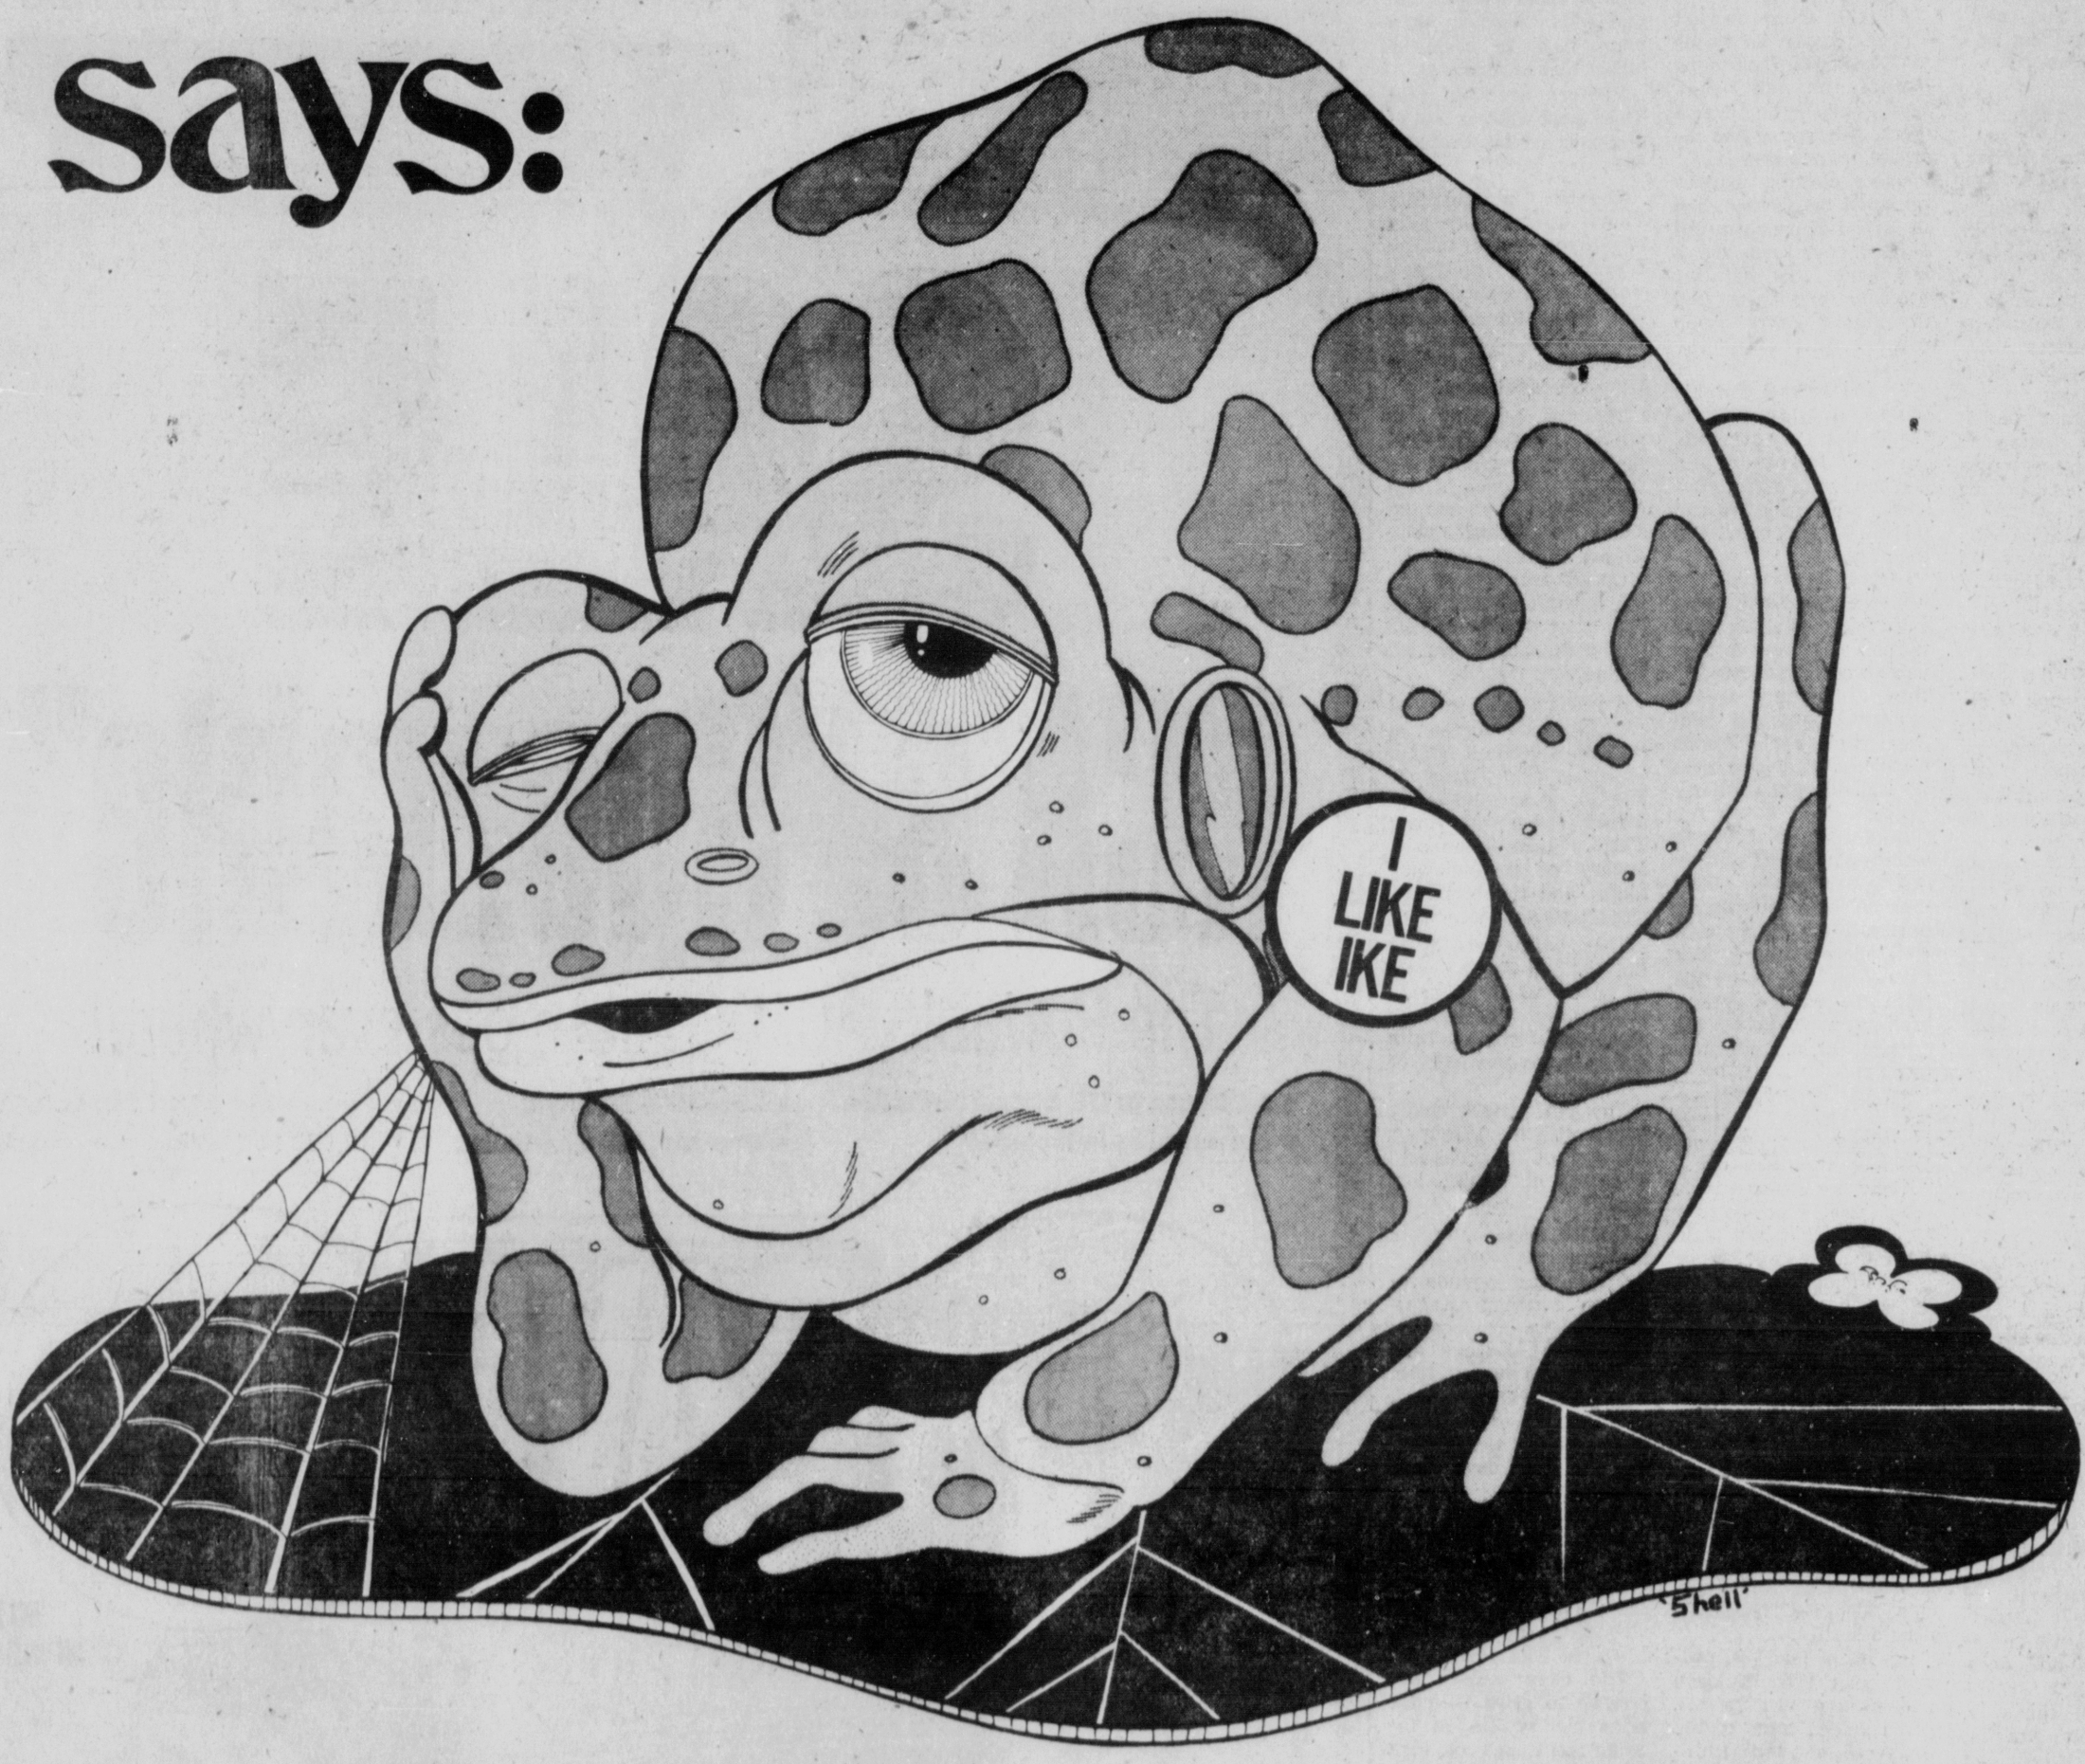
Rip Van Ribbit says:



"Don't be caught napping– use the Want Ads."

"I shouldn't have taken that second sleeping pill," croaked Rip Van Ribbit as he opened one bleary eye. "I'd better hop over to Lily's pad for a cup of coffee and catch up on what's new."

Halfway across the pond he ran into his old friend, Phil O'Dendron. "Hi Ya, Phil," he rasped. "How's Rhoda? You look terrible. Been sick or somethin'?"

"Rip!" exclaimed Phil. "Where in the bulrushes have you been hiding? And what's with the 'I Like Ike' button?"

"Just overslept," said Rip. "You oughta do something about those wrinkles."

"You sound kinda hoarse, Rip."

"Probably got a person in my throat. Have you seen Lily White?"

"Boy, you HAVE been out of it. Lily moved to the Everglades. Had a big house-cleaning and sold a lot of stuff in the Want Ads. Real estate fella got her a great price on her house and she also found a good reliable car for the trip. You know, in spite of all the changes, those Want Ads still do the same old great job."

"What changes?" croaked Rip.

Introducing Le Car

Pintos, Vegas, Toyotas and Fiats. Great performance, plus 41 MPG highway, 27 MPG city, according to California EPA figures.* Remember: These figures are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition and optional equipment.
*Based on 1976 figures.

Les Features

Think of Le Car as a sports car with a back seat. With front wheel drive, rack and pinion steering and Michelin steel-belted radials standard it, offers fantastic handling, cornering and traction on any road surface.

Le Fantastic Ride

The problem with little cars, a harsh ride, is no longer a problem. Le Car rides so smoothly, even on rough roads, it'll amaze you.

Le Performance

Le Car will not bore you. During 1976, it took first in its class in 12 out of 16 races, beating Hondas, Datsuns,

In Europe, where driving is a passion, where people demand economy, performance and a car that's fun to drive, over one million people have bought Le Car. Now, a proven success, Le Car comes to America.
